

George Leading in Georgia Primary; Talmadge Second

Far Ahead in Popular Vote and Has Unit Vote Majority

CAMP IS FAR BEHIND

Jones Apparently Nominated for Arizona Governor

Atlanta—(P)—Senator Walter F. George, whose retirement was asked by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, held an increasing lead for re-nomination as additional unofficial returns came in today from the Georgia Democratic primary.

Former Governor Eugene Talmadge, New Deal critic, ran second and New Dealer Lawrence S. Camp, endorsed by the president for the senate, was last in the Wednesday balloting.

Camp conceded defeat last night. Senator George, in a radio broadcast from his home in Vienna today, said the principles of true democracy have triumphed, and the voice of the people is a mandate to carry on the true principles of democracy in our national politics.

He said the primary would go down in history as a "momentous one," adding that "not for three score and ten years has the state faced the fundamental issues" such as those involved in the current primary.

Has 222 Unit Votes

George was leading in 78 counties with 222 unit votes. Fifty-six of them, with 152 unit votes, were complete. In 15 of the 26 additional counties, with 46 unit votes, only one precinct was missing in each.

There are a total of 410 unit votes in Georgia, 206 being necessary to establish a winner in this race.

Talmadge was ahead in 72 counties with 160 unit votes. Of this number, complete returns were in from 35 counties with 80 unit votes and Talmadge was leading in 19 other counties which lacked only one precinct each of completion. These 19 counties had 42 unit votes.

In the Camp column were nine counties totalling 28 unit votes. Five were complete. He was ahead in another county with two unit votes in which only one precinct was missing.

Popular Vote

With 1,597 of the 1,735 precincts in the state reporting, George's popular vote was 123,403; Camp's 66,408 and Talmadge's 59,174.

The total popular vote in the senate race was 278,982, or 64.08 per cent of the state registration.

Governor E. D. Rivers, seeking re-nomination to "complete" a little New Deal program, was leading in 95 counties with 264 unit votes.

Hugh Howell, former Democratic state chairman, was second in the gubernatorial race with 144 unit votes in 63 counties.

John J. Mangham, Bremen business man, was third, with two unit votes from one county, his home county of Haralson. Robert F. Wood, the fourth candidate, had no unit votes.

Reports were complete in the governor's race in 97 counties and incomplete in the other 62.

Vote For Governor

Popular returns for governor were Rivers 139,496; Howell 115,570; Mangham 15,368 and Wood 1,528. There were only 141 precincts missing.

The vote this year compared with a total in the 1936 primary of 990,884 in 1934 of 270,257 and in 1932 of 278,647.

Camp offered congratulations to "the successful candidate" last night without naming him, adding "I regret that the fight has not succeeded at this time, but it is a fight that must win in the end."

Under party rules official returns were to be tabulated and announced at county seats beginning at noon today.

The state also elected 10 congressmen, four of them unopposed, state

Money Makes New Yorkers Blush

"New York City embarrassed by Federal grant of $31,328,500" headlines a New York paper. New Yorkers embarrassed by an offer of money is news. It true, why not divert the golden stream into other, more receptive pockets? This writer, personally, might even find it a patriotic duty to accept, if they'd make it an even 33 million dollars. Not a penny more! The balance could go for classified want-ads to find out what to do with the windfall. Here's an ad. from The Post-Crescent, that made a sale without embarrassing anybody:

Buckmans Facing Suit for $100,000

42 Milwaukeeans File Action in Circuit Court

Madison—(P)—Forty-two Milwaukeeans filed suit in circuit court here today to recover $100,000 for securities sold them by the bankrupt B. E. Buckman Investment company.

Among the defendants are President B. E. Buckman; Vice President L. C. George; Secretary E. C. Holt and their wives; William M. Dinneen, former secretary of the state public service commission, and the Elwell-Kieckhefer accounting firm.

Fayette Elwell and Benjamin A. Kieckhefer were named individually and as co-partners in the accounting company.

The suit charges that Buckman officers controlled affairs of Continental Public Service company, on whose stock the defendants claim they lost money, that Elwell and Kieckhefer prepared the Continental operating statements and balance sheets and that Dinneen aided the sale of the securities by concealing the true condition of Continental Public Service.

The complaint, filed through Attorney Robert A. Moss of Milwaukee, alleged the Buckman company sold $3,000,000 worth Continental Public Service stock to 1,500 investors, mostly in Wisconsin, and that securities are now worthless.

Buckman company officers are serving terms in Waupun prison for violation of the state securities act.

Rumor Martin May Resign UAW Post

Report President Would Quit if Board Control Is Lost

Detroit—(P)—Homer Martin, it was rumored today, will resign as President of the United Automobile Workers if he loses control of its international executive board.

Another persistent but unconfirmed report was that the board's final action on John L. Lewis' program for peace in the U. A. W. would be conclusive proof that Martin had lost his 12-to-8 control of the board.

These reports said that five board members heretofore aligned with Martin would desert him if he broke off negotiations with the Committee for Industrial Organization on the Lewis proposals.

The defection of the five would leave the UAWA president with only a minority on the board and make possible its acceptance of the peace plan, which Martin vigorously opposed.

The showdown on the issue was delayed by an illness which confined Martin to his hotel.

Lewis, chairman of the CIO, recommended reinstatement of four expelled international officers and mediation by the CIO in any UAWA disputes which might arise before the union's convention next August.

Medics Name Frederic Doctor President-Elect

Milwaukee—(P)—Dr. Raymond G. Arveson, of Frederic was chosen president-elect of the state medical society today at the closing session of the society's house of delegates. He will take office a year hence.

Dr. Arveson, a native of Milwaukee, was chairman of the society's special committee of medical care whose recommendations were adopted this week by the doctors' group.

The doctors again chose Milwaukee as the site of the 1939 convention.

Dr. J. Newton Sisk, of Madison, was elected speaker of the house of delegates.

Dr. A. E. Reiter, Appleton, new president of the medical society who was elected last year, took office last night.

Flood Tears Away Part of Portage Dike

About 200 Persons Will Be Forced to Evacuate Homes

WATERS RECEDING

Tourist Cabins are Carried Away in Mauston Area

Portage, Wis.—(P)—The raging Wisconsin river carried away 50 feet of levee today, loosing a flood of water on the eastern section of the city.

Officials said parts of the 1,000-acre area were under 10 to 15 feet of water. About 200 persons will have to evacuate their homes, they added.

Residents of the area hurriedly moved their stock to safety.

Damage will be relatively small, city officials said, because much of the flooded section is marsh land. They expressed the opinion the water would flow eastward about two miles and drain off down the Fox river.

Maintain Patrols

The levee break, near the extreme eastern end of the barrier, came at 5 a. m. Fifty men immediately went to work with sandbags in an attempt to prevent the exposed end from crumbling further.

Elsewhere along the levee, work crews were plugging small leaks. Heavy patrols were maintained at all points.

Across the river in the town of Caledonia, a break was narrowly averted last night. A serious leak developed, but fast work with sandbags plugged the hole.

Despite the break, Portage citizens were less anxious today after receiving reports the Wisconsin was beginning to recede. The stage was 20.4 feet at 6 a. m., two-tenths of a foot below yesterday's high point. A fall of three-tenths of a foot since 2 a. m., was recorded at Wisconsin Dells, upstream.

In other parts of the state high water carried a threat of danger in case of further heavy rains.

The Mississippi river isolated cottages on lower Pettibone island, at LaCrosse, and fields of corn and buckwheat in the river bottoms in Iowa, across from Cassville, were flooded.

Mauston, Wis.—(P)—The rain swollen Wisconsin river, inundating thousands of acres and carrying away an undetermined number of tourist cabins in its raging tide, today stood at flood levels old residents said had not been attained in half a century.

In Marion township, about 10 miles east of here, water two to 15 feet deep covered more than 4,500 of the towns 14,500 acres.

Rail Employees Get Formal Notice of Wage Reductions

Chicago—(P)—More than 900,000 employees of the nation's major railroads were advised formally today their pay checks would become 15 per cent slimmer at 12:01 a. m. Saturday, Oct. 1.

Announcement of the effective day of the cut originally was made by the carriers joint conference committee on Sept. 10. The committee said the action of the individual railroads today in advising representatives of each employee organization of the reduction order was a follow-up of their announcement.

The railroad workers are taking a strike vote this month, following the collapse of efforts to mediate the wage dispute. If a strike is voted, the national railway labor act permits President Roosevelt to postpone a walkout until after a fact-finding commission reviews the controversy. Intervention by the president also would postpone the effective date of the wage cut, originally set for July 1.

Minuzzo, 47-year-old automobile worker, denied the charge.

Elderly Man Succumbs After Falling Into Lake

Portage, Wis.—(P)—Herman Rueckert, 78, of Portage, died in a hospital here last night shortly after he fell into Crystal lake from a pier.

114 PWA Projects in State Given Washington Approval but City and County Proposals are Not Included

Public Works Administration allotments aggregating $8,512,169 were made today to 114 projects in Wisconsin, but not one to Appleton, according to information from Washington. Only two of the allotments were made in Outagamie county, one for $42,345 for municipal improvements in Little Chute, and $3,777 for a town hall in Dale.

Among the large Appleton and Outagamie county projects which so far have failed of approval are the proposed Outagamie county courthouse, the city hall and street paving projects in Appleton.

Whether these will be included in later grants is problematical.

Neenah fared very well in the allotments, receiving a total of $120,281 for three projects. The new recreation building was granted $63,000, a total of $43,781

Henlein Wants Sudeten Area Added to Germany; Premier Meets Hitler

Leader Voices Demands in Proclamation to Sudetens

GOVERNMENT ACTS

Sends More Troops and Tanks to Quell Disorders

Prague—(P)—Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein issued a proclamation today demanding annexation of the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

The proclamation, which was addressed to Sudeten Germans and Germans in the reich, declared "it is definitely impossible for Sudeten Germans and Czechs to live in the same state."

"The Sudeten Germans want to return to our home in the reich," it said, complaining that self-determination had been denied them in 1919.

"The Sudeten Germans have never renounced the right of self-determination. God bless us in our just fight."

General Strike

Shortly after the proclamation was transmitted a general strike was called at Reichenberg, fourth largest industrial center in the country and six miles from the German frontier.

Reports received in Prague said all stores were closed and all business activities halted. There were no editions of evening newspapers.

Thousands of Sudetens in Reichenberg gathered in the streets after hearing Henlein's proclamation and shouted demands that Sudeten territory be returned to Germany.

Brooke Guilty of Murdering Wife

Jury Deliberates 10 Hours; Prisoner Faces Life Term

Columbus, Ga.—(P)—Major John R. Brooke, Jr., 45-year-old infantry school tactician, faced life imprisonment in a federal penitentiary today for his comely wife's brutal slaying.

Brooke broke into sobs as Judge Bascom Deaver passed sentence last night after a federal court jury returned a verdict of "guilty of murder in the first degree without capital punishment."

The prosecution charged Brooke bludgeoned his wife, 42, to death June 8 and left her body in a pool of blood at the foot of stairs in their Fort Benning quarters.

Brooke maintained his innocence and insisted he had never laid hands on his wife in anger.

Led from Room
Brooke's face went pale, then became flushed when the verdict was read. He began to sob. He was led from the room. A few moments later he returned, apparently composed.

He stood at attention as sentence was passed.

"Under the verdict," said the judge, "I have no discretion in the case, and I must sentence you to imprisonment for life."

Brooke's shoulders sagged and he again sobbed audibly.

Defense Attorney T. Hick Fort announced he was undecided whether the case would be appealed. The jury deliberated 10 hours and 30 minutes.

Mrs. Brooke, the major's second wife and a former army nurse of Fond du Lac, Wis., was the mother of three children.

Europe Awaits Outcome of Confabs at Berchtesgaden

By the Associated Press
The eyes of Europe anxiously turned toward the little Bavarian town of Berchtesgaden today as Britain's prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, and Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany met for a momentous talk which may mean peace or war.

Meanwhile, Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein issued a proclamation demanding annexation of the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

Alarmed by the serious turn of events in Czechoslovakia, Chamberlain arranged the unprecedented conference by a telegram to Hitler yesterday and flew to Germany this morning.

Lessens Tension

If the visit has no other effect, it lessened the tension in Europe at least temporarily and brought praise for Chamberlain's bold diplomatic maneuver from the quarters which usually are critical.

Germany remained silent on the Czechoslovak situation and was expected to do so until after the Berchtesgaden conference.

The Prague government, meanwhile, dispatched more troops and tanks to suppress disorders involving its Sudeten German minority in towns along the western and northern frontiers.

The French government, which was said to have taken the initiative in urging Chamberlain to visit Hitler, placed its hopes of peace in the Berchtesgaden conference, but sources close to the foreign office said they had little idea what turn the interview might take.

Trip Draws Praise

The Italian press was quick with praise of Chamberlain for his trip to Germany.

Rome said: "Chamberlain has intervened with his initiative, truly worthy of a statesman of high European conscience."

At the same time, an open letter to Viscount Runciman, British unofficial mediator of the Sudeten dispute, published in Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, advocated that Czechoslovakia be divided into racial states: "to save Europe a war."

"Meanwhile, the wars in China and Spain were virtually at a standstill. The Spanish war simmered to exchange of artillery fire, while the Chinese reported they were blocking the Japanese advance toward Hankow, China's provisional capital."

7-Year-Old Girl Fatally Injured On Way to School

Traffic Accident Occurs On Highway 45 Near Leppia's Corners

Ruby Norma Schroeder, 7-year-old farm girl, route 1, Appleton, was fatally injured this morning when she was struck by a car while on her way to the High Ridge school in the town of Greenville.

The accident occurred at 8:15 on Highway 45 about a mile south of the junction of Highways 45 and 10.

The youngster, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer H. Schroeder, was dead when she was brought to St. Elizabeth hospital in Appleton. Her skull was fractured and both legs broken.

The driver of the car was Harold Kling, 19, route 1, Shawano. District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr said today that both Kling and the girl's grandfather, William Schroeder, told him that the child ran into the path of the car.

A coroner's jury was called this morning and viewed the body at the hospital. Dohr said that an inquest will be held next week.

The child was struck at a point on the highway about a half-mile south of the High Ridge school. Dohr said that she, with several other children, stopped in front of a farm to wait for other classmates. As they stood there, the Schroeder girl's father and grandfather drove by in cars, north bound for Greenville. The grandfather's machine

Secretary Hull to Meet Roosevelt on Return to Capital

Washington—(P)—Secretary Hull said today he would meet President Roosevelt at the railroad station when the president's train arrives from the west this evening.

Hull will acquaint the president with the latest dispatches on the tense European situation.

The United States is watching the Chamberlain-Hitler conversation with "the greatest interest," Hull said at his press conference.

Permitting direct quotations, a rare occurrence, he declared: "The historic conference today between the prime minister of Great Britain and the chancellor of Germany is naturally being observed with the greatest interest by all nations which are deeply concerned with the preservation of peace."

Hull said he was in telephonic communication with the president this morning, communicating to him the latest news in from Europe.

17 Escape When Fire Destroys Large Bus

Norwalk, Conn.—(P)—Sixteen passengers and the driver of an interstate bus bound from Boston to New York escaped to safety today in fire which destroyed the vehicle, which had halted to take on gasoline. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Many of the passengers, some of whom were asleep at the time, were assisted from the bus by Herman Masse of Boston, after Walter Johnson, attendant at the filling station and eating place, shouted a warning of fire.

Great Britain to Buy 400 Airplanes in United States

Washington—(P)—Great Britain has taken the first legal steps for the purchase of 400 airplanes in the United States.

The state department announced today that arms export licenses totaling $1,152,253 had been issued for Great Britain.

This compared with only $11,500 in July and provided in part for the export of 200 observation planes and 200 training planes. Great Britain has ordered from American manufacturers.

Fuehrer Welcomes Chamberlain at Berchtesgaden

PARLIAMENT WAITS

Will Hear Personal Report From Prime Minister

Berchtesgaden, Germany—(P)—It was officially announced tonight Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain would return to London tomorrow to consult the British cabinet after a three-hour talk today with Adolf Hitler at his Bavarian mountain retreat.

Berchtesgaden, Germany—(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain arrived at 4:02 p. m. today (9:02 a. m., C.S.T.) for his talks with Reichsfuehrer Hitler in search of means to assure European peace.

The British leader was received by Dr. Otto Meissner, chief of the chancellery, who conducted him after a short stop at the Grand hotel to Hitler's home, Berghof on Obersalzberg.

A special train brought Chamberlain and his party from Munich, where he had arrived earlier from London by airplane.

A crowd which had gathered near the railway station cheered Chamberlain when he appeared, walking from the train with Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, who had accompanied him from Munich.

Ribbentrop remained with the British prime minister as he motored to the hotel and thence to Berghof.

Standing at the top of the wide staircase leading into his home, the German chancellor welcomed his visitor. After a brief exchange of greetings Hitler conducted Chamberlain into the house.

People lined the winding road between Berchtesgaden and Obersalzberg and cheered as the British party drove by in one of Hitler's famed big black motor cars.

Groups shouted "Heils" and threw their German Bavarian caps into the air.

Berlin—(P)—DNE, the official German news agency, reported today in a dispatch from Neugersdorf, Saxony, near the Czechoslovak border, that war preparations in northern Czechoslovakia were alarmingly on the increase.

The dispatch said the Czechoslovak state police and gendarmes had been greatly augmented and that additional classes of army recruits had been called to the colors.

The population of the northern border regions, DNE declared, was in a panic.

(In Prague government authorities, replying to questions concerning troop movements along the frontier, said there was no exceptional military activity.)

The proclamation of Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader, demanding annexation of the Sudeten regions by Germany received greater prominence in the German press today than even the visit of Prime Minister Chamberlain to Berchtesgaden.

Foreign diplomats did not hesitate to express belief that the proclamation was carefully timed to confront Chamberlain at Berchtesgaden with a new situation.

London—(P)—The British government arranged today to recall parliament to hear Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's personal report on his talk with Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany.

Parliament recessed July 29 until Nov. 1 but has remained subject to immediate recall.

The exact date for early reassembly will be fixed when parliamentary leaders learn when Chamberlain is returning from Berchtesgaden.

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, Captain Edward Atterton, speaker of the house of commons, and Captain Henry Margesson, chief government whip, met at No. 10 Downing street to make the final arrangements.

Advised by Ministers
Capt. Fitzroy, really is the only man permitted to recall parliament.

Briggs Walkout Affects Plymouth Plant in Detroit

7,000 Sent Home When Supply of Auto Bodies Is Shut Off

Detroit—Seven thousand employees of the Chrysler Corporation Plymouth division were sent home today because a strike at the Briggs Manufacturing company shut off the supply of automobile bodies.

Negotiations were in progress between the United Automobile Workers and Briggs officials. A dozen members of the U. A. W. "flying squadron" picketed the Briggs Mack avenue plant which was closed yesterday by the strike.

Briggs officials and a union delegation conferred three hours last night without reaching any agreement to end the strike and planned to meet again today.

The two sides disagreed on whether progress had been made and also on the cause of the strike, which left 9,000 Briggs employees idle.

Emil Mazey, president of the Briggs U. A. W. local, said "progress is being made" after the negotiators' first meeting, but a representative of the management asserted that "we did not get anywhere."

The strikers accused the company of speeding production from 45 to 60 units a day. The company called this "ridiculous."

The company dismissed a shop steward and three others in the welding department and accused them of trying to retard production. Union workers sat down when their reinstatement was denied.

Several hours later the strikers marched out of the plant, after the management promised no attempt to operate until made pending negotiation of the differences.

Hitler Welcomes Chamberlain to Bavarian Resort

liament, but he, like the king, acts on the advice of the ministers.

King George VI after lunch sought further information on the international situation from Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary.

Arrangements for summoning the legislators back to the houses of parliament were made as the prime minister, in the boldest diplomatic maneuver of modern history, flew to Germany to ask Hitler to preserve peace.

It was the first time in his life the 68-year-old premier had flown. He said before he left, of the dramatic journey he decided yesterday to make:

"I am going to see the German chancellor because the situation seems to me to be one in which discussions between him and me may have useful consequences."

Three Primary Objects

The 610-mile flight to Munich, and thence by auto to Berchtesgaden, had three primary objects as British interpreted it:

To get Hitler's help to keep disorders in Sudeten areas of Czechoslovakia from spreading into European war; to reopen negotiations on the Czechoslovak-Sudeten German minorities dispute; to impress on Hitler personally that Britain must fight if the security of France is threatened in war.

Having announced suddenly his decision to go to Hitler yesterday, the premier quickly won the praise of his own British press, of the French who shared responsibility for the trip, of Premier Mackenzie King of the important dominion, Canada, and of Italy, whose press was more cordial than any British spokesman since coolness arose between the countries over the Ethiopian war. Germany, too, was pleased.

Some quarters said the American ambassador, Joseph P. Kennedy, had conveyed to Chamberlain a feeling the United States also would provide him moral support.

Paris—The French government placed its hopes of peace today on the efforts of Premier Chamberlain of Britain to solve the Czechoslovak crisis by his personal talk with Adolf Hitler.

Although the French indicated Premier Daladier had taken the initiative in urging Chamberlain into the extraordinary step, sources close to the foreign office said they had little idea what turn the interview might take.

These sources said only that the question of a plebiscite for the Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia had been excluded.

This point of view, made known late last night, contradicted a growing belief in diplomatic quarters yesterday that France was ready to support such a plan—by which the Sudeten could vote to be annexed by Germany.

Happy Sign

While French commentators were unanimous in praising the "courage" of the British premier's move, they were divided on the chances of his persuading Hitler not to use

The proclamation was broadcast through Germany and was transmitted to the Czechoslovak government by Henlein.

It was issued at Eger, near the German frontier, just a few hours before Great Britain's prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, was scheduled to talk with Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany on the Sudeten crisis.

It assailed methods used by the Czechoslovak government in efforts to crush disorders which have caused at least 23 deaths in Sudeten areas in the past three days.

The cabinet immediately began to study the proclamation at Prague and indicated an answer would be given, possibly this afternoon.

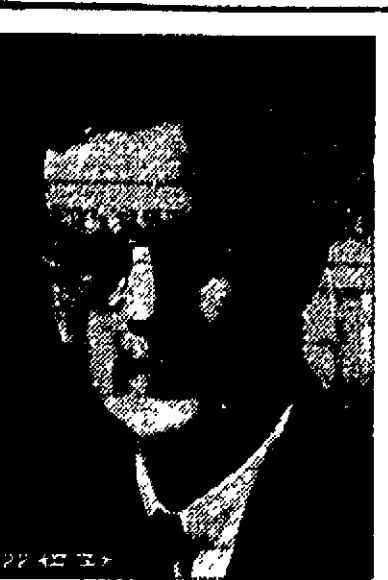

Meanwhile, the government dispatched more troops and tanks to suppress disorders in the Sudeten regions, the death toll of which was not yet fully known.

Swift Action

"Stop this rebellion before it becomes an European conflict," were instructions to the army, the police and the gendarmerie.

Bent on swift action, it appeared that probably before the end of the day the government would convene one of the special courts provided for by martial law at Eger. Sudeten stronghold where officers encountered machine-gun fire as they tried to capture a sniper in Victoria hotel.

The courts are empowered to impose death sentences to be executed within two hours. Both Eger and Schwabach, where bitter fighting took place yesterday, were quiet.

Irwin, of the American Bankers association, New York city, will be guest speaker at the public meeting to be held Monday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel under the sponsorship of Group 3 of the Wisconsin Bankers association. Hails New Court Rules Designed to Save Time, Money

Procedural Changes Will Go Into Effect Tomorrow

Washington — (AP)—A new set of federal court rules, hailed by Attorney General Cummings as "the most striking advance in the administration of justice in half a century," go into effect tomorrow.

Justice department officials said the procedural changes—86 of them—should save litigants time and money because they eliminate considerable legal red tape and provide shortcuts for settling suits.

Drafted by the supreme court with the aid of department experts, the new rules govern civil suits. Officials said some of the principal changes included:

Fewer Jurors

A loser in court can not ask for a new trial because of a technical error unless he can show that the error actually affected the outcome of the case.

Less than 12 jurors may hear a case by mutual consent of all parties, thereby saving the litigants time and the government money.

Judges may confer with attorneys for both sides at a "pre-trial." There, extraneous testimony can be weeded out, unnecessary witnesses dismissed, and the real issue agreed on before the trial begins.

save for military patrols early this morning.

Appraising the critical situation, Czechoslovakia found many reasons for forebodings.

Print Casualty Lists

The temper of the Sudeten district next to Germany was high as extremists among the 3,500,000 Sudeten population kept up their clamor for union for Germany.

There was no war, but casualty lists were appearing in newspapers. Sudeten - Czechoslovak negotiations for peaceful settlement had broken down.

Nor was the government sure what to expect of the meeting between Adolf Hitler and British Premier Chamberlain at Berchtesgaden.

The meeting, it was felt here, might hold out an eleventh hour hope for peace. But officials of Prague wondered whether the peace of Europe might be bought by the British premier at the expense of more sacrifices on the part of Czechoslovakia.

5,000 Hear Walker Say Prosperity Is Not Out of Reach

Give me 100 million Americans that want to get in and work hard and I'll have prosperity back in 24 hours."

"Sales Mean Jobs," the slogan of the crusade which led to last night's rally and to Walker's appearance here, isn't just a snappy phrase, the crowd was told.

"Business starts when people begin to satisfy needs," Walker said. "When no people want anything, there's no business. That's all there is to it."

Pleasant park, by the way, was a popular place last night. The outlay of college and high school bleachers and park benches provided seating for most of the crowd. There were others in cars listening to Walker, the other speakers, and the free acts provided by Edward Mumm's vaudevilleans.

Takes Off Coat

Walker, who said depressions will end when people are willing to take off their coats and go to work—and then promptly pulled it off—declared that it's hopeless to expect the government to bring prosperity.

"The government protects us while we are doing business, but Uncle Sam can't do business himself. If you're waiting for the government to bring back prosperity, you'll have to wait until your grandchildren are growing whiskers. No matter whom you elect, it doesn't make any difference. You've got to do it yourself."

"You might say to me, 'But, Mr. Walker, we don't have any money.' Why, we never had so much money in the history of our country. We've got 12 billion in gold reserve, more than one-half all the free gold in the world. And we have one billion more currency in circulation than ever before."

'Been Raining 6 Years'

There are 25 billion dollars in bank deposits, Walker said. "And when I say to you that you should buy more of the things you need, you say to me, 'Oh, we're saving it for a rainy day.' Well, if it hasn't been raining for the last six years, I don't know when it's going to start."

The statement that "I'll leave my money in the bank" shows a lack of confidence, Walker said. "The one way for a man to find happiness is to find the things he wants. We have depressions when men forget. The goods are in the ground, the needs are there. All we must do is use our brains. That's what God gave them to you for."

There's no need for the fear and uncertainty abroad in the country today. "There's nothing wrong with America," Walker said. "Forget it and get to work."

Purdy Presides

He was introduced to the crowd by R. H. Purdy, president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, who presided at the meeting. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Alex O. Benz, general chairman for the "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade were other speakers.

"If 'Sales Mean Jobs' will create added employment, that is what we of the city government want," Mayor Goodland said. "I stand by ready to give you my cooperation as mayor of the city and as one of its citizens."

The present recession is "peculiar," Mr. Benz said, in that the usual symptoms are not apparent. "Inventories are low, credit facilities with low interest rates are ample, and no one is panicky. What is wrong? It's a state of mind."

The mental perspective of the American people must be focused from the "fog and valley to the

McMahon in Attack Upon Federal Administration

Milwaukee—(AP)—Stephen J. McMahon charged yesterday that "those in power in Washington" had made a failure of the administration of the federal government during a period "of some six years."

McMahon, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, addressed the Women's Court and Civic Conference.

"The fault is not with our form of government," McMahon said, "it is with the people in power who are administering our government."

"Those in power at Washington are guilty of acts of omission as well as of commission, both of which should be stopped."

Republicans Kent Promises-Catlin

Candidate for Assembly Gives Campaign Talk At Dale

Despite insufficient representation, Republicans in the last state legislature introduced legislation "substantiating every platform promise and fought untiringly for its passage," Mark Catlin, Republican candidate for nomination to the assembly from the First district, said in a talk at Dale last night.

Catlin, the present assemblyman, told his listeners that "I promised to vote against additional governmental expenditures and I did just that."

He pointed to his introduction of a bill which would have allowed an increase of members on the Outagamie county board without affecting the Appleton city council and said he helped fight the passage of a law which "might have meant the elimination of religious schools in Appleton." Catlin listed the $5 auto license, 3-cent gas tax, and increases in old age aids as measures he supported.

summit," Mr. Benz said. "It is only you and I who can help ourselves."

The SOTAL Drum and Bugle corps from the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion, recently crowned state champions, and the Appleton High school band entertained during the early part of the evening. Following Walker's talk, the free acts were presented.

The crowd began gathering as early as 6 o'clock and the stands were well filled when the program began. Threatening weather undoubtedly kept several thousand people from the park. A few drops of rain fell about 7 o'clock and hundreds of people who had intended to attend the program, changed their minds.

Nearly a thousand automobiles were parked along the roadways in the park, under the direction of park policemen and members of the American legion. Uniformed legionnaires also acted as ushers, seating the crowd quickly, and splendid order was maintained.

U. S. Envoy to England Has Difficult Task During Tense Situation in Europe

Mule Is Elected as G. O. P. Committeeman

London — (AP)—These days of war-threat impose a heavy responsibility on American ambassadors. Joseph Kennedy since the task of acting as go-between for two great powers in a time of crisis is extremely delicate and calls for airtight judgment.

John Bull is watching the American reactions to the frequent international crises with anxiety. He is giving plenty of indication that he wants to keep close to the strong right arm of Uncle Sam as the sparring between the European democracies and dictatorships continues.

Thus it devolves upon Mr. Kennedy to perform his task with meticulous accuracy. Employment of ill-considered language in reflecting Washington's policy might precipitate disaster by misleading England into expecting support which would not be forthcoming.

I have worked with all the American ambassadors to London since the term of our war-time envoy, the late Walter Hines Page, and should say that Mr. Kennedy has on his hands as tough a job as has fallen to any United States diplomat in the history of actual hostilities. Decidedly it is no afternoon tea mission. British confidence in him, it goes without saying, is in him. It goes further and says it likes him. Perhaps that isn't strange, for he has a pleasing personality, being blessed with other things with one of those captivating Irish smiles.

Canadians Would Supply Allies in Event of Conflict

Lawrence Says War Would Change Economic Situation Here

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — War in Europe would mean a complete change in the domestic situation, both in an economic and a political sense.

If Europe should be embroiled in war, Canada would immediately take the center of the stage as the supply station for the allied countries. Under the Johnson act, neither Great Britain nor France can borrow money in the United States as governments. This is because of the default on the loans of the last war. The Canadian government's credit, however, is good, and her loans for purchases of supplies would doubtless be floated successfully in America among private investors.

Direct loans between the government here and foreign governments are out of the question and would not arise unless America herself entered the war some day. The impetus to trade and commerce which would come out of the purchase of war supplies would be reflected immediately in the prices of grains and raw materials. Abandoned plants or factories which have been on the borderline between profit and loss would suddenly come into production again on the borderline between profit and loss would suddenly come into production again on a profitable scale.

All this is not reported in any sense as a desirable or undesirable development, but merely as an indication of what may be expected in an economic sense. For the facts today are somewhat the same as in 1914—Europe needs American munitions and the materials that go into the making of munitions. Whenever there is an increased demand for anything, prices are apt to rise rapidly.

Raw Gold As Base
Canada has a large supply of gold underground, and no doubt arrangements will be made by the British government to finance purchases with the gold supply as a base. It will be recalled that President Roosevelt recently said in a public address that America looked upon Canada as a close friend and a nation which could not be attacked without raising issues of fundamental concern to the United States government. This speech will be recalled again and again as Canada becomes the base of operations for war material distribution from the western hemisphere.

Curiously enough, the officials of the American government do not yet believe war is coming. They feel that the opportunities for a peaceful solution of the European difficulty have not been exhausted. Certainly the decision of Prime Minister Chamberlain to confer in person with Adolf Hitler is a clear sign of how anxious the Democracies are to avoid war.

But, even if the present controversy is patched up, the prospects of a clash later on cause a certain amount of apprehension over the long-range prospects.

If war does come, say in 1939, it may have a profound effect on the political situation. Thus, the demand for a third term for Mr. Roosevelt in 1940 might possibly be strengthened among those who want him to continue in office but who realize that otherwise the third term precedent would be a hard one to break. Should war be in progress in Europe, the argument for the breaking of the precedent might be regarded as stronger.

War Blankets Events
Already the war situation acts as a sort of blanket over domestic events. While it is true President Roosevelt has been occupied the last few days with the personal problem arising out of the critical operation performed on his son James, it is significant that comment on the Maryland primaries and Maine election was more or less sidetracked by the president and his associates. It was announced, for instance, that war developments were taking precedence. Mr. Roosevelt decided to come to Washington direct instead of going to Hyde park, and this gave a war tinge to the news of his movements which helped to make people forget the fact that in Maryland and Maine the anti-New Deal strength was rising perceptibly.

Should war begin in Europe this autumn, the whole trend of the next session of congress which begins in January will be changed. Discussion of neutrality will be uppermost. That is why the circumstances under which Britain and France make every effort to maintain peace and transfer to the shoulders of Mr. Hitler the responsibility for war will have a profound effect on American public opinion and will do much toward directing public sentiment when neutrality legislation is discussed. Clapper Says U. S. Hasn't a Dictator In Spite of What Sen. Tydings Says

Washington—With Europe in the valley of the shadow of death, our own domestic political warfare seems trivial indeed. Lucky Americans. We are not threatened with the destruction that hangs perilously over the head of every man, woman and child in England and France, over peaceful citizens who want only to be allowed to go about their own affairs. We have no dictator—in spite of what Senator Tydings says—who is trying to throw us and all of our neighbors into war. Our Führer can't even persuade his own party to kick out of the senate a man who has opposed and betrayed him on most of the important measures, a man who in spite of the label he wears is at home only among the most reactionary Roosevelt haters.

Raymond Clapper

We Americans don't know what trouble is. Yet last week I heard a businessman, who lives in easy luxury, denounce Roosevelt and ask, "What else can you expect of a man with dementia praecox?" Recently I heard a doctor, a very successful one, who makes some $50,000 a year, condemning the efforts to develop group hospital funds so that less fortunate persons could be assured of decent medical care. He blamed it all on "that maniac in the White House."

Well, I think you could find a good many people in Europe this sad day who would gladly seek haven in the United States, yes even under dictator Roosevelt and his taxes and all of his evil deeds from which Senator Tydings is going to save the Maryland free state. Tydings set out to repudiate the leadership of Roosevelt and he carried a clear majority of Democratic primary voters with him. It wasn't a defeat for Congressman Davey Lewis, for he holds the respect and esteem of Maryland, even of scores of politicians who were bound to the Tydings machine. Nobody is apologizing today for Lewis, a sincere man worth to democracy a dozen men like the hero Tydings.

Maybe Farley Will Have Something To Say

No, you have to put this result down not as a victory for Tydings but a repudiation of Roosevelt. Keep the free state free. Tydings pressed that issue and won. The nation is told that Maryland Democrats are through with Roosevelt. They've put him in his place. Around polling places Tuesday night, Tydings workers saw they had a clear majority and they were already talking enthusiastically about their new candidate for president.

Some newspaper commentators went on the air with the same theme song. The Democratic party, we are told, is coming to Maryland to pick Tydings for 1940 because he stands for repudiation of Roosevelt. The party will go into the campaign on a platform that will say in slightly formal language, "To hell with Roosevelt." Under that banner Tydings will lead the Democratic party backward from Roosevelt. The Democratic party will repudi-

Tuberculosis Is Common Disease In Newfoundland

Appleton Dentist Describes Medical Work of Red Cross in Labrador

"Experience was our only pay but we got plenty of that," Dr. C. A. Eisentraut, Appleton dentist, said while discussing the work of a Red Cross mission to alleviate suffering in the northern part of Newfoundland. Traveling by dog team in the winter and boat in the summer, the itinerant doctors work under the most trying of conditions, he said.

Because of the lack of sanitary education, there is a great deal of tuberculosis among the Labrador Eskimos and beri-beri is a common disease for they know little about healthful diets, the speaker said.

All minor operations are performed in the homes, Dr. Eisentraut continued, while major surgery work is carried out at a hospital in St. Anthony. A characteristic of the region is that there is little infection and few deaths were the result of post-operative infection.

"The populace is very stupid because of intermarriage," he continued. "The chief sustenance is

Pegler Sees Burlesque In Frowsy Politicians

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Senator Tydings, of Maryland, is a tall, thin man, straight-backed and immaculately dressed, with a preference for double-breasted suits. Representative David J. Lewis, his late opponent, is short, chunky, slightly stooped and silver-haired, and doesn't mind if his suit becomes rumpled or his tie askew. These descriptions, taken from a political story of the Maryland campaign, picture the traditional conservative and radical types of statesmen.

Herbert Hoover and Charles G. Dawes, arch-conservatives, are double-breasted and wear linen collars, too—in challenging contrast to the professional and conventionalized neckless jerries of American public life. Clarence Darrow preserved that aspect of frowsiness which is generally taken to bespeak vanity forsworn and an obsession with the woes of the forgotten man. He was the type, no question, but he met his equal at Dayton, Tenn., when William Jennings Bryan shucked his shapeless, black alpaca coat and took the witness stand in a dollar shirt, stained with honest, if histrionic, sweat, waving a nickel palmetto fan. They were an even match, man to man, but Mr. Bryan had the lord in his corner, whereas Satan handled the bucket in Mr. Darrow's angle of the ropes, and the result never should have been in doubt. Neither man could out-common the other in honest homeliness or the hammy affectations of which both were masters, but Mr. Bryan got what, in pugilism, would be called a home town decision.

There seems to be something patting and, in truth, subtly insulating to the common man in the exaggerated imitation of his honest and unavoidable unkemptness by those who would thus appeal to his political favor. It is an old ad, as David Lloyd George can testify, a reliable device, but most of those who resort to it can well afford to dress as well as their most reactionary opponents, and surely the bird's nest haircut and eyebrows are no badge of principle.

Bryans Homely Dress Adorned Practical Realist Mr. Bryan, in his days as speller for the real estate promotion at Coral Gables, Fla., was richly paid, and toward the end of his engagement the old piper took the precaution to get his money cash in advance, not trusting the financial stability of the project which he was recommending to those who had faith in him. It is a literal truth that Mr. Bryan operated on the principle of the nickel piano in the corner saloon, and his homely dress adorned the figure of a practical realist as ever went in double-breasted coat and fine linen.

It is reliable hokum, the bagginess and exaggerated indifference to normal neatness which public figures sometimes affect to woo the approval of those whose harsh condition denies them good apparel, warm water and soap. It is reliable, notwithstanding the obvious affectation and an implied suggestion that untidiness is next to godliness. Yet it sometimes is an act which mocks the intelligence and personal feelings of the underprivileged, as a lampooning of their misfortune by a mountebank who would say, "I am the friend of the people, for, behold,

I am gritty and have B.O. and always spill food on my vest." Huey Long Could Use Double-Breasted English There may be some among the famous third of this nation skeptical and clever enough to reflect within themselves that a map of comparative wealth, well able to buy the best in clothing, barterage and a personal sanitation, is not necessarily a common man at heart but may be burlesquing or soiled and habitually somewhat high by choice. There have been public figures of this type in congress, in the lower orders of politics and in the outskirts of the labor movement who attempted to make a political and social virtue of a personal aversion to plain hygiene.

TO LAWRENCE: GREETINGS

It's pleasant to see signs of activity around the Lawrence campus these days, and pleasant to see eager, earnest young men and women preparing to climb the surmountable barriers that college puts up before each incoming class, each year. When freshmen gather for their first convocation, as they will this evening, it's a sure sign that fall is here and that the hazy autumn days will find the world as it should be, with Lawrence performing its important function in the daily life of Appleton.

The function of Lawrence goes, of course, far beyond those outward signs that are as much a part of autumn as bonfires and falling leaves. Lawrence is many things to many people. To some it means a stately old campus, an historical city landmark. To others it is the scene of work already done, or of work to do. To all of us, it means something, and for this reason, practically every resident of Appleton is glad to know that the college is again in session.

Appleton would be a different and very much less desirable city without Lawrence, even though not a single Appleton resident took advantage of the splendid educational facilities which the college provides (which, of course, is not the case). A good college does something for a city that is difficult to describe, but is nevertheless very tangible and highly invaluable.

For this reason we welcome the arrival of new students and the return of faculty and upperclass members. We are very glad to have you with us.

THE BIG SHOT GETS A LIFT

Justice received an ugly stab when Judge Pecora declared a mistrial and discharged the jury in the Hines case.

For four weeks Prosecutor Dewey had piled up evidence against the Big Shot, formidable evidence from scores of witnesses, some mobsters but some of such high character that Hines' attorney ran to the last corner known in defense by suggesting "mistaken identity." Among other things, and as part of the conspiracy Mr. Dewey established that former Prosecutor Dodge was nominated and elected largely through Hines' influence and great sums of money secured by him from the underworld. As soon as the defense took up its burden of meeting the strong case that had been developed it offered to show that the former and allegedly controlled prosecutor was so just that he had investigated rumors and charges against this very Hines, even the charges upon trial. But there had been a "run-away" grand jury that smelled out Dodge's apparent protection of Hines and determined to bring forth its own witnesses and make its own investigation regardless of the district attorney. Into that situation Mr. Dewey asked this question:

"Don't you remember any testimony about Hines and the poultry racket there by him?"

And Justice Pecora has ruled that this unanswered question is "a drop of poison" that has paralyzed the entire case. No wonder it is hard to convict the big shots. If this be a sample of justice in American courts it is high time we changed something.

Justice Pecora made this ruling although he knew that if he erred Dewey could not appeal. Observe again how the hands of the prosecution are tied, how the advantage is given always to the defense.

Delays and mistrials of this kind almost invariably defeat justice. To get together again the same scores of witnesses, to protect some from assassination and others from bribery or influence, is a heavy task.

A system of procedure such as that in New York which permits this almost diabolical assault upon justice should long since have been amended. But where are you going to find a political organization that will undertake the reform demanded by such crying needs? There would be no popular support for it. The people can seldom be aroused unless there is a goat to be chased.

To demonstrate how justice is dragged in the dust and great wrongs left unrighted in order to correct some trivial situation that is, however, aflash with color, it should also be noted that on the same day Justice Pecora was making a ruling that will go far to buttress the hundred million dollar racket game in New York, the people of that city were evidencing their lost because the price of an 18-ounce loaf of bread had been cut one cent.

That cut, it is claimed, will save them $1 million a year so what do they care about the release of Hines who costs them a hundred million?

But this trial has other and even more serious and sinister implications.

Mr. Hines was the New Deal distributor of patronage for all Manhattan. He was a 100 per cent New Dealer, hand in glove with Farley. Justice Pecora is a New Deal judge appointed only two years ago, to bring the new message of the modern life. He took the place of a judge who was out of step with the times, one who had been sending racketeers "up the river" for 30 and 40 years at a stretch.

Dewey must be stopped at any cost. The 36-year-old prosecutor could not be bought nor bent. The people were clamoring for Dewey for everything, but most of all for governor, senator or president. There was nothing of the lily-handed about him, he had not one earmark that sets apart our soft and charming circle of aristocrats. He was a man's man, a two-fisted fighter, the incorruptible.

These are but the acknowledged facts, the decision of Justice Pecora is shrouded in no mist, the alleged error stands upon the basis of a plain question. And the ruling is that a jury that had heard four weeks of testimony and was to hear probably four weeks more had been rendered unfit to decide the case by the interposition of this one question that actually appears as proper considering the purpose of the defense and that wasn't even answered.

Is Justice blindfolded or is she just dumb, or has she slipped the kerchief from off her eyes?

The ruling is so preposterous that it of itself is some evidence that the judge who made it was at least ill.

But the effect of such a mistaken notion of justice is to warm the very cockles in the hearts of the weasels and the wretches who had been frightened out of their yellow wits by Dewey, frightened into confessions and pleas of guilty, but now convinced that the Big Guy is still the Big Guy, and that he who once told police magistrates what to do and a prosecutor what not to do has extended his long and slippery fingers into the higher chambers of the judiciary.

If we really had a higher percentage of statesmen in office such outlandish rulings would never even be possible. We would not only save hundreds of millions in wealth but by supporting, approving and amending our system of procedure we would rid ourselves of an altogether obnoxious element of society at the same time.

But such a step could not be compared in popularity to that one cent saving on a loaf of bread, said to total 75 cents per person per annum.

THE AMERICAN PURGE

Mr. Roosevelt has found that there is something poisonous in the American soil when it comes to transporting and planting here political ideas or practices based upon European models however much they may have been modified in the trip across the Atlantic.

For his purge has been a flop and a failure.

Yet his opposition to Senator Tydings was built upon firmer ground than his fight against George of Georgia, Smith of South Carolina, and men of that type.

Had Mr. Roosevelt been more careful and less sweeping in his judgment of his fellowmen as to who was liberal and who conservative he might have defeated Tydings which would have accomplished something.

The idea that we are to have a liberal party and that the definition of liberalism is to be made by one man, namely Mr. Roosevelt, who will also read in and out of the party every person he likes, according to the color of his eyes and hair and irrespective of his record, is not to be readily swallowed by the American people so long as they are away from the hysteria of idol worship so carefully nurtured by the 300,000 extra employees of the government whose business is to toast the President, sing his praises, and transfix him in the public mind as the miracle man.

Public thoughts are that liberalism is all right, but who is a liberal? the New Deal may be all right with many but this is the third shuffle; and an administration that promised so much if permitted to have its own way and then produced its own brand new bread and soup lines better try to explain its course of action instead of criticizing those who do not see eye to eye with it.

A Verse for Today

GRANDMA'S BLACK SILK DRESS

As long as Grandma owned a dress. Fed and sprinkled with sachet. She had a sense of lovely, she said. And power to meet the troubled day. It was a gown she seldom wore. She kept it in the "bureau drawer." And saved it for the preacher's calls. For weddings and for funerals.

A cotton print, a challis gown Would do for common, Grandma said. And once a week she drove to town. Her bonnet perched upon her head. Those times she wore her "second best." With cuffs and collars white as milk. She always said that she'd be blest If she'd wear out her best black silk!

And when we children came to see Our Grandma, lying still and white. We knew how happy she would be To look so lovely in our sight. For buttoned to her throat, she wore

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—ARTERMATH: A man jumped from the ledge of a Fifth Avenue hotel a month ago. Afterward came the horror enthusiasts. A woman offered the hotel doorman $25 for the hat he was wearing the night the man's body came crashing through the marquee. Every day hundreds of visitors walk the avenue and ask to have the suicide ledge pointed out to them. They stare long minutes, marking every detail, so they can go home and tell the Sewing Circle and the poetry Club all about it. I heard today that ten thousand dollars would have halted the suicide of John Warde. (The tragedy cost the city an estimated $30,000 in extra police, firemen, ambulances and interruption of traffic during the 11 hours the man stood on the ledge, taunting them all, before he leaped.)

The hotel management, working desperately to save the man's life, asked him if he could be "bought" off the ledge. At first he said no. Later he said he would abandon his suicide plans for ten thousand dollars.

No one was willing to pay that much. It wasn't worth it, John Warde jumped.

A hotel man, reading what was written in this column two weeks ago about John Warde, objected politely to the fact that I mentioned the name of the hotel where the suicide occurred.

"Such tragedy," he argued, "does great financial damage to a hotel, which spends much money and long years to build a fine reputation. Why do writers, discussing the tragedy, have to say that it occurred at the Gotham hotel? Why not say it occurred at a hotel at Fifth Avenue and 55th Street?"

There is an excellent reason, sir. One of the famous "Five Ws" of journalism—"Who, What, When, Where, Why"—is, you notice, "Where." It is information that is vital to the honest reporting of an event. Often it is an advantage to the place mentioned. Sometimes it is a disadvantage. Whichever it be, it is honest reporting.

Let us say that in this spectacular suicide from the ledge of the Gotham hotel we, and all other reporters, had said "the ledge of a hotel at Fifth Avenue and 55th Street" as you suggest. The management of the Hotel St. Regis might not like it—might, indeed, be justifiably aggrieved.

The St. Regis, you see, is at Fifth Avenue and 55th Street, too!

I am not so sure that an unfortunate affair such as the Warde suicide is actually damaging to business anyway. An official of the Hotel Men's Association takes this view:

"A hotel lives on its reputation—on its character. If its reputation is high and its character clean, a suicide or even a murder within its walls cannot harm it seriously. People are not stupid enough to hold a hotel responsible for what a guest may do.

"The harm comes when a hotel lacks character. Several years ago there was a murder in a hotel. The subsequent investigation disclosed that the hotel was tenanted in large numbers by gangsters. In other words, it had been catering (probably unwittingly) to the wrong people. It took a murder to make this fact generally known. Travelers still remember that, and the hotel suffers as a consequence. It isn't the fact that a man was murdered there that hurts the hotel. The harm came from the fact that the hotel's character couldn't stand up under the resulting publicity."

The World's Fair, barely six months away, is expected to lay a record business in the laps of New York hotels. There will be plenty of hotel accommodations for every visitor, but as is inevitable—the demand is going to be aimed at the better known places, thus taxing their facilities, while hundreds of smaller hotels will have plenty of empty rooms.

Precautions have been taken against price-kiting. Hotels have agreed to keep their rates down to the 1929 price level. Those were boom days, and the prices were no great bargain. Most hotels, however, have slowly climbed back to the 1929 level already. Others will reach it by a small rate increase—about fifty cents per person per day.

Prices are apt to remain stable and reasonable, mainly because of the fierce restaurant competition. Theater prices probably won't go above the $3.30 top that prevails for most Broadway shows today, although musicals may get delusions of box office grandeur if they see a big demand for tickets.

The public itself will have to be the price fixer. If prices go too high, we can always stay home and read a good book. (Copyright, 1938)

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Sept. 13, 1928

Coach Clarence Rasmussen, Milwaukee, who was to direct the destinies of the Lawrence college football team that fall arrived here the previous day to begin the task of putting the Vikings back among the state football powers. Rasmussen had been at Milwaukee Country Day school the last few years.

Martin Toonen was elected chief ranger of Appleton court, No. 132, Catholic Order of Foresters, at Catholic home. Others elected were: Msgr. W. J. Fitzmaurice, spiritual director; Leo Toonen, past chief ranger; Alois Stoeckbauer, vice chief ranger; William Nemachek, recording secretary; Joseph J. Doerfler, financial secretary; Henry E. Roemer, treasurer; Anton Koltchak, trustee for three years.

F. J. Sensenbrenner, president of Kimberly-Clark corporation, had purchased a tract of 55 acres of land on the north shore of Lake Winnebago in the town of Harrison. The property had 1,660 feet of lake frontage.

25 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Sept. 18, 1913

The enrollment at Lawrence college was believed to be the largest in the history of the institution. Registrar Olin Mead and his assistant, Miss Georgia Bentley, stated they had never been so rushed before.

Miss Carrie E. Morgan and Prof. W. F. Faulkes returned home the previous day from Madison where they attended the conference of industrial school teachers. About 150 attended the sessions.

Otis Sanders, a freshman from Oconto Falls, had the distinction of being the first member of the class of 1918 to go into the waters of the Fox River. He was given his initial class ducking last night by the sophomores.

Theodore Briggs and Robert McCurdy returned the previous day from Eagle River where they had been camping.

A Bystander In Washington

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in official and political life of the nation and in journalism are substituting for him. Today's guest column is written—

BY CHARLES NUTTER
Associated Press Correspondent
Recently in Madrid

Washington—A visitor on the Aragon front in Spain last spring was amazed and alarmed to find himself walking with a guide through trenches only knee-deep, and the enemy lines 300 yards away.

As he dived for cover, his officer guide turned to reassure him by saying:

"That's all right, we don't shoot at each other up here."

The visitor thereupon proceeded with a three-day survey of fortifications in that sector during which he avowed he didn't hear a rifle shot fired "in anger."

In fact the story was current, he said, that a rifle shot was used as an all-round warning. He couldn't confirm this, but he was able to confirm that officers, instead of living at the front, lived leisurely in homes several miles behind the lines, and came to the front during the day much as a business man would go to his office.

Beware of the Enemy
Another visitor to that front once reported an arrow sign, like a highway marker, pointing across country, with the legend, "Enemy Lines, Three Kilometers, DANGER."

Along this front, it might be added, troops planted and cultivated flower gardens between the lines during the summer of 1937.

That's all changed now, however, for when General Franco looking for a weak spot this spring, hit this sector, his troops weren't stopped until they were swimming in the Mediterranean and Loyalist Spain had again been divided in half.

No-Man's-Land may be 10 miles or more across, the lines consisting only of outposts, an artillery piece, or a machine gun crew commanding a valley. On one occasion the Loyalist cavalry turned cowboy temporarily and rounded up 8,000 head of cattle grazing in "No-Man's-Land," the southern front. Not a shot was fired at them.

Another time in Estramadura, two non-commissioned officers from Insurgent Spain deserted to the Loyalists in a high-powered American motor car, riding up in style to surrender and to be greeted joyously because they had the wit to bring along thousands of cigarettes to the tobaccoless Loyalist outpost.

When isolated Asturias fell last October, the number of Loyalist troops made their way unimpeded through the enemy lines, across 250 miles of enemy country and more enemy lines, and rejoined the Loyalists at Madrid.

Fishing for Food
Troops often hunt and fish between the lines, not for sport, but for fresh food which is always welcome. Cases of peasants killing their soil in comparative peace between the so-called lines have been reported at various times.

The reason is obvious. Spain is divided into two enemy camps by more than 1,000 miles of lines. . . . three times the front line territory in France and Belgium during the World war which was manned by probably 10 times as many men. Even in France there were quiet sectors with weeks of inactivity.

In Spain only key highways and positions are heavily entrenched and fortified. Even manning these fortifications requires so many men that neither side has large numbers of offensive troops. That is one factor prolonging the war. Neither side has a force free to strike with overpowering strength at a vital spot.

Fraternizing across the lines despite every effort to stop it is reported on a limited scale. Propaganda by loudspeaker is used to convince the other troops they are fighting for the wrong cause and should desert. These methods reap some rewards. There is constant desertion back and forth on a small scale, such deserters often bringing important military information. The enemy invariably starts minor action when the loudspeakers go into effect attempting to drown out the voice.

Often this spreads the alarm to nearby sectors and before long there is heavy firing on a mile-long front, none knowing just what brought on the action.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.; from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m., until midnight.

Buildup methods or threats are likely to indicate a cowardly disposition. In money matters, the Shylocks are likely to reveal their shord nature this day. It may be only through courageous, firm resistance that unreasonable requests, as well as unjust demands, will be successfully adjusted. This is a bad day to indicate a sense of fear, so under all circumstances present a bold front, and the chances are you will come out the winner in any dispute. Be careful that some unfounded suspicion does not upset your disposition and cause you needless worry. Household pets may be extremely sensitive to harshly spoken words or discordant sounds, so they deserve to be treated with the greatest consideration. It is likely to be a simple matter this day to rub both people and animals the wrong way. Married and engaged couples, and those who have plighted their love, must be very considerate of each other's feelings.

If a woman and September 16 is her birthday, you are inclined to be very sentimental, perhaps overly sensitive and frequently governed by impulses. The quicker you learn not to harbor grudges and to forgive and forget, the happier you will be. You are very responsive to harmonious influences, especially music. With vision and foresight you may forestall the expenditure of a great deal of money during various periods of your life. You are, most likely, very tolerant regarding the views of other people, but have very fixed ideas of your own. Teaching, singing, acting, writing, selling, demonstrating or managing a business may enable you to prove that you possess an unusual amount of ability. Through marriage you may see the realization of some of your most ambitious dreams, and learn the real meaning of happiness.

The child born on September 16 seldom sulks, is inclined to be quick-tempered, very generous and intensely loyal to family and friends. A successful social, professional or business career is generally awaiting children born on this date.

If a man and September 16 is his natal day, you, in all likelihood, take a great deal of pride in doing well on whatever you have to do. You appear qualified to be an architect, engineer, artist, sculptor, politician, musician, journalist or inventor.

Successful People Born on September 16:
Albert Ross Parsons, musician.
Henry Mitchell, scientist.
Squire Whipple, civil engineer.
William A. Muhlenberg, clergyman and hymnologist.
Francis Parkman, author and historian.
George P. Prescott, electrician and inventor.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THE YOUNGER GENERATION

A reader asks for an article setting forth my views or opinion on mothers who smoke and the effect, if any, on their children. The reader says she does not smoke but her daughter does. Her daughter has two sons. The elder son is five years old and has difficult breathing if not true asthma. The younger son is apparently healthy.

The reader says she has Ben Told. Just between ourselves would this not be a better world if the evasive mood were outlawed and every one referring to Ben Told were entitled to three hearty Bronx cheers upon the mention of Ben's name. . . .

The ice man or the girl who does her hair informed the reader that "the average age of babies born of mothers who smoke is nine years."

I do not know, but I believe that smoking invariably impairs the expectant mother's health more or less, renders her less capable of nursing her baby, and starts the baby off with a handicap. I believe the child born of a smoking mother usually presents evidence of faulty nutrition and therefore fails to grow and develop as well as a healthy baby should.

I believe this notwithstanding the advice given by some physicians, even good obstetricians, that if the expectant mother wishes to smoke it is all right and will do no harm to herself or her baby. The reader asked me to give my opinion and I have done so. I may be wrong. Nobody knows.

A good suggestion has been made by Henry C. Link, Ph.D., director of the psychological service center, New York City, who points out that smoking is a mechanism or chain of automatic actions or habitual motions which become in time a nervous-muscular process that is hard to resist or interrupt. The process consists of lifting the package, extracting a cigarette, tamping one end, placing it in the mouth, striking a light, inhaling the first puff or two of smoke.

Only because I am trying hard not to be nice I refrain from adding that the smoker then glances about to see whether the performance thus far has been effective.

Habitual smokers, especially excessive smokers, generally resort to smoking as a convenient way of covering incompetence, inability, inadequacy, inferiority. They smoke instead of doing something. People who smoke excessively seldom indulge in any exercise, play or work they can by hook or crook avoid. The business of smoking enables them to avoid doing something, yet for the moment conceals, as they imagine, their inadequacy.

Young people who go in for real exercise, play or work do not crave the fake stimulation of tobacco. They get real stimulation from the increased metabolism, that goes with proper exercise. Athletic young people do not smoke because they find they cannot compete successfully under the handicap of lowered wind and deficient circulation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Infestation
If a healthy person has his teeth filled by a dentist who has just been treating some patient with venereal disease, and the dentist should cut the gum with drill or burr, isn't there a chance that the person will be infected with the venereal disease? (E. C.)
Answer—Not particularly. If the dentist is one of standing and proper training, there is less chance than there would be in having your nails manicured, your hair done, your skin treated, your whiskers shaved, following some customer who had a communicable disease. Presumably you would not patronize a dentist who is not competent to use strictly aseptic methods.

Fasting

Do you believe in fasting for physical betterment? (H. R.)
Answer—No. If you have indulged to excess a fast of a day may be harmless, but it is more sensible and natural to correct the abuse by moderate restriction in the diet. In any circumstance, it is advisable to increase the intake of vitamins when you decrease the caloric intake—to prevent serious deprivation of essential vitamins.

District Institute to be Conducted Next Week

Forest Junction—At an Appleton district institute on evangelism to be held at First Evangelical church at Neenah on Tuesday, Sept. 22, the Rev. Philip Schneider, pastor of Zion Evangelical church, appears on the program at the evening session to discuss the topic "The Work of the Holy Spirit in Evangelism." Ministers and laity of the district will attend the institute. Three sessions will be held, at 9:30 in the forenoon, 7:30 in the afternoon, and at 7:30 in the evening.

After nearly daily rainfall for a period of one week, farmers on Tuesday were still waiting for favorable weather for corn cutting and silo filling. Though fields had somewhat dried out by Monday afternoon enabling farmers at a few locations to go out with binders and wagons, a pouring rain the following night once more halted further activity.

Home Hygiene Classes To be Held at Waupaca

Waupaca—Dates will be announced soon for classes in a new course in home hygiene and care of the sick to be sponsored by the local chapter of the Red Cross. The classes, under the guidance of Miss Estelle Jung, county nurse, and Mrs. Clifford Johnson, will be held in the kindergarten room in the new elementary building.

Home hygiene, as one part of the instruction offered, deals with individual health, hygiene, cleanliness, sanitation, healthful arrangement of the home and special care of individuals in the home.

Care of the sick, as the second part of the course, deals with indications of sickness; home environment of the sick; prevention of the spread of communicable diseases and devices for the comfort of the invalid.

TO LAWRENCE: GREETINGS

It's pleasant to see signs of activity around the Lawrence campus these days, and pleasant to see eager, earnest young men and women preparing to climb the surmountable barriers that college puts up before each incoming class, each year. When freshmen gather for their first convocation, as they will this evening, it's a sure sign that fall is here and that the hazy autumn days will find the world as it should be, with Lawrence performing its important function in the daily life of Appleton.

The function of Lawrence goes, of course, far beyond those outward signs that are as much a part of autumn as bonfires and falling leaves. Lawrence is many things to many people. To some it means a stately old campus, an historical city landmark. To others it is the scene of work already done, or of work to do. To all of us, it means something, and for this reason, practically every resident of Appleton is glad to know that the college is again in session.

Appleton would be a different and very much less desirable city without Lawrence, even though not a single Appleton resident took advantage of the splendid educational facilities which the college provides (which, of course, is not the case). A good college does something for a city that is difficult to describe, but is nevertheless very tangible and highly invaluable.

For this reason we welcome the arrival of new students and the return of faculty and upperclass members. We are very glad to have you with us.

THE BIG SHOT GETS A LIFT

Justice received an ugly stab when Judge Pecora declared a mistrial and discharged the jury in the Hines case.

For four weeks Prosecutor Dewey had piled up evidence against the Big Shot, formidable evidence from scores of witnesses, some mobsters but some of such high character that Hines' attorney ran to the last corner known in defense by suggesting "mistaken identity." Among other things, and as part of the conspiracy Mr. Dewey established that former Prosecutor Dodge was nominated and elected largely through Hines' influence and great sums of money secured by him from the underworld. As soon as the defense took up its burden of meeting the strong case that had been developed it offered to show that the former and allegedly controlled prosecutor was so just that he had investigated rumors and charges against this very Hines, even the charges upon trial. But there had been a "run-away" grand jury that smelled out Dodge's apparent protection of Hines and determined to bring forth its own witnesses and make its own investigation regardless of the district attorney. Into that situation Mr. Dewey asked this question:

"Don't you remember any testimony about Hines and the poultry racket there by him?"

And Justice Pecora has ruled that this unanswered question is "a drop of poison" that has paralyzed the entire case. No wonder it is hard to convict the big shots. If this be a sample of justice in American courts it is high time we changed something.

Justice Pecora made this ruling although he knew that if he erred Dewey could not appeal. Observe again how the hands of the prosecution are tied, how the advantage is given always to the defense.

Delays and mistrials of this kind almost invariably defeat justice. To get together again the same scores of witnesses, to protect some from assassination and others from bribery or influence, is a heavy task.

A system of procedure such as that in New York which permits this almost diabolical assault upon justice should long since have been amended. But where are you going to find a political organization that will undertake the reform demanded by such crying needs? There would be no popular support for it. The people can seldom be aroused unless there is a goat to be chased.

To demonstrate how justice is dragged in the dust and great wrongs left unrighted in order to correct some trivial situation that is, however, aflame with color, it should also be noted that on the same day Justice Pecora was making a ruling that will go far to buttress the hundred million dollar racket game in New York, the people of that city were evidencing their least because the price of an 18-ounce loaf of bread had been cut one cent.

That cut, it is claimed, will save them 5 million a year so what do they care about the release of Hines who costs them a hundred million?

But this trial has other and even more serious and sinister implications.

Mr. Hines was the New Deal distributor of patronage for all Manhattan. He was a 100 per cent New Dealer, hand in glove with Farley. Justice Pecora is a New Deal judge appointed only two years ago, to bring the new message of the modern life. He took the place of a judge who was out of step with the times, one who had been sending racketeers "up the river" for 30 and 40 years at a stretch.

Dewey must be stopped at any cost. The 36-year-old prosecutor could not be bought nor bent. The people were clamoring for Dewey for everything, but most of all for governor, senator or president. There was nothing of the lily-handed about him, he had not one earmark that sets apart our soft and charming circle of aristocrats. He was a man's man, a two-fisted fighter, the incorruptible.

These are but the acknowledged facts, the decision of Justice Pecora is shrouded in no mist, the alleged error stands upon the basis of a plain question. And the ruling is that a jury that had heard four weeks of testimony and was to hear probably four weeks more had been rendered unfit to decide the case by the interposition of this one question that actually appears as proper considering the purpose of the defense and that wasn't even answered.

Is Justice blindfolded or is she just dumb, or has she slipped the kerchief from off her eyes?

The ruling is so preposterous that it of itself is some evidence that the judge who made it was at least ill.

But the effect of such a mistaken notion of justice is to warm the very cockles in the hearts of the weasels and the wasps who had been frightened out of their yellow wits by Dewey, frightened into confessions and pleas of guilty, but now convinced that the Big Guy is still the Big Guy, and that he who once told police magistrates what to do and a prosecutor what not to do has extended his long and slippery fingers into the higher chambers of the judiciary.

If we really had a higher percentage of statesmen in office such outlandish rulings would never even be possible. We would not only save hundreds of millions in wealth but by supporting, approving and amending our system of procedure we would rid ourselves of an altogether obnoxious element of society at the same time.

But such a step could not be compared in popularity to that one cent saving on a loaf of bread, said to total 75 cents per person per annum.

THE AMERICAN PURGE

Mr. Roosevelt has found that there is something poisonous in the American soil when it comes to transporting and planting here political ideas or practices based upon European models however much they may have been modified in the trip across the Atlantic.

For his purge has been a flop and a failure.

Yet his opposition to Senator Tydings was built upon firmer ground than his fight against George of Georgia, Smith of South Carolina, and men of that type.

Had Mr. Roosevelt been more careful and less sweeping in his judgment of his fellowmen as to who was liberal and who conservative he might have defeated Tydings which would have accomplished something.

The idea that we are to have a liberal party and that the definition of liberalism is to be made by one man, namely Mr. Roosevelt, who will also read in and out of the party every person he likes, according to the color of his eyes and hair and irrespective of his record, is not to be readily swallowed by the American people so long as they are away from the hysteria of idol worship so carefully nurtured by the 300,000 extra employees of the government whose business is to toast the President, sing his praises, and transfix him in the public mind as the miracle man.

Public thoughts are that liberalism is all right, but who is a liberal? the New Deal may be all right with many but this is the third shuffle; and an administration that promised so much if permitted to have its own way and then produced its own brand new bread and soup lines better try to explain its course of action instead of criticizing those who do not see eye to eye with it.

GRANDMA'S BLACK SILK DRESS

As long as Grandma owned a dress, Fed and sprinkled with sashet. She had a sense of loveliness. And power to meet the troubled day. It was a gown she seldom wore. . . . She kept it in the "bureau drawer." And saved it for the preacher's calls. For weddings and for funerals.

A cotton print, a challis gown Would do for common, Grandma said. And once a week she drove to town. Her bonnet perched upon her head. Those times she wore her "second best." With cuffs and collars white as milk. She always said that she'd be blest if she'd wear out her best black silk!

And when we children came to see Our Grandma, lying still and white. We knew how happy she would be To look so lovely in our sight; For buttoned to her throat, she wore

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—ARTERMATH: A man jumped from the ledge of a Fifth Avenue hotel a month ago. Afterward came the horror enthusiasts.

A woman offered the hotel doorman $25 for the hat he was wearing the night the man's body came crashing through the marquee. Every day hundreds of visitors walk the avenue and ask to have the suicide ledge pointed out to them. They stare long minutes, marking every detail, so they can go home and tell the Sewing Circle and the poetry Club all about it.

I heard today that ten thousand dollars would have halted the suicide of John Warde. (The tragedy cost the city an estimated $30,000 in extra police, firemen, ambulances and interruption of traffic during the 11 hours the man stood on the ledge, taunting them all, before he leaped.)

The hotel management, working desperately to save the man's life, asked him if he could be "bought" off the ledge. At first he said no. Later he said he would abandon his suicide plans for ten thousand dollars.

No one was willing to pay that much. It wasn't worth it. John Warde jumped.

A hotel man, reading what was written in this column two weeks ago about John Warde, objected politely to the fact that I mentioned the name of the hotel where the suicide occurred.

Such tragedy," he argued, "does great financial damage to a hotel which spends much money and long years to build a fine reputation. Why do writers, discussing the tragedy, have to say that it occurred at the Gotham hotel? Why not say it occurred at a hotel at Fifth Avenue and 55th Street?"

There is an excellent reason, sir. One of the famous "Five Ws" of Journalism—Who, What, When, Where, Why—is, you notice, "Where." It is information that is vital to the honest reporting of an event. Often it is an advantage to the place mentioned. Sometimes it is a disadvantage. Whenever it is, it is honest reporting.

Let us say that in this spectacular suicide New York City takes this view:

"A hotel lives on its reputation—on its character. If its reputation is high and its character clean, a suicide or even a murder within its walls cannot harm it seriously. People are not stupid enough to hold a hotel responsible for what a guest may do."

"The harm comes when a hotel lacks character. Several years ago there was a murder in a hotel. The subsequent investigation disclosed that the hotel was tenanted in large numbers by gangsters. In other words, it had been catering (probably unwittingly) to the wrong people. It took a murder to make this fact generally known. Travelers still remember that, and the hotel suffers as a consequence. It isn't the fact that a man was murdered there that hurts the hotel. The harm came from the fact that the hotel's character couldn't stand up under the resulting publicity."

The World's Fair, barely six months away, is expected to lay a record business in the laps of New York hotels. There will be plenty of hotel accommodations for every visitor, but as is inevitable—the demand is going to be aimed at the better known places, thus taxing their facilities, while hundreds of smaller hotels will have plenty of empty rooms.

Precautions have been taken against pricing. Hotels have agreed to keep their rates down to the 1929 price level. Those were boom days, and the prices were no great bargain. Most hotels, however, have slowly climbed back to the 1928 level already. Others will reach it by a small rate increase—about fifty cents per person per night.

Food prices are apt to remain stable and reasonable, mainly because of the fierce restaurant competition. Theater prices probably won't go above the $3.30 top that prevails for most Broadway shows today, although musicals may get delusions of box office grandeur if they see a big demand for tickets.

The public itself will have to be the price fixer. If prices go too high, we can always stay home and read a good book.

BY CHARLES NUTTER

Recently in Madrid

Aragon front in Spain last spring was amazed and alarmed to find himself walking with a guide through trenches only knee-deep, and the enemy lines 300 yards away.

As he dived for cover, his officer guide turned to reassure him by saying:

"That's all right, we don't shoot at each other up here."

The visitor, however, proceeded with a three-day survey of fortifications in that sector during which he avows he didn't hear a rifle shot fired "in anger."

In fact the story was current, he said, that a rifle shot was used as an air raid warning. He couldn't confirm this, but he was able to confirm that officers, instead of living at the front, lived leisurely in homes several miles behind the lines, and came to the front during the day much as a business man would go to his office.

Beware of the Enemy

Another visitor to that front once reported an arrow sign, like a highway marker, pointing across country, with the legend, "Enemy Lines, Three Kilometers, DANGER."

Along this front, it might be added, troops planted and cultivated flower gardens between the lines during the summer of 1937.

That's all changed now, however, for when General Franco looking for a weak spot this spring, hit this sector, his troops weren't stopped until they were swimming in the Mediterranean and Loyalist Spain had again been divided in half.

No-Man's-Land may be 10 miles or more across, the lines consisting only of outposts, an artillery piece, or a machine gun crew commanding a valley. On one occasion the Loyalist cavalry turned cowboys temporarily and rounded up 6,000 head of cattle grazing in "No-Man's-Land" on the southern front. Not a shot was fired at them.

Another day, in Tetramadura, two non-commissioned officers from insurgent Spain deserted to the Loyalists in a high-powered American motor car, riding up in style to surrender and to be greeted joyously because they had the wit to bring along thousands of cigarettes to the tobaccoless Loyalist outpost.

When Loyalist Austrians fell last October, a number of Loyalist troops made their way unimpeded through the enemy lines, across 250 miles of enemy country and more enemy lines, and rejoined the Loyalists at Madrid.

Fishing for Food

Troops often hunt and fish between the lines, not for sport, but for fresh food which is always welcome. Cases of peacocks, tilling their soil in comparative peace between the so-called lines have been reported at various times.

The reason is obvious. Spain is divided into two enemy camps by more than 1,000 miles of lines. . . . Three times the front line territory in France and Belgium during the World war which was manned by probably 10 times as many men. Even in France there were quiet sectors with weeks of inactivity.

In Spain only key highways and positions are heavily entrenched and fortified. Even manning these fortifications requires so many men that neither side has large numbers of offensive troops. That is one factor prolonging the war.

Neither side has a force free to strike still, overpowering strength at a vital spot.

Fraternizing across the lines despite every effort to stop it is reported on a limited scale.

Propaganda by loudspeaker is used to convince the other troops they are fighting for the wrong cause and should desert. These methods reap some rewards. There is constant desertion back and forth on small scales, such as deserters often bringing important military information. The enemy invariably starts minor action when the loudspeakers go into play, attempting to drown out the voice.

Often this spreads the alarm to nearby sectors and before long there is heavy firing on a mile-long front, none being just what brought on the action.

NO DOUBT HE PLANNED IT THAT WAY

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If September 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.; from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

Buildup methods or threats are likely to indicate a cowardly disposition. In money matters, the Shylocks are likely to reveal their sordid natures this day. It may be only through courteous, firm resistance that unreasonable requests, as well as unjust demands, will be successfully adjusted. This is a bad day to indicate a sense of fear, so under all circumstances present a bold front, and the chances are you will come out the winner in any dispute. Be careful that some unfounded suspicion does not upset your disposition and cause you needless worry. Household pets may be extremely sensitive to harshly spoken words or discordant sounds, so they deserve to be treated with the greatest consideration. It is likely to be a simple matter this day to rub both people and animals the wrong way. Married and engaged couples, and those who have plighted their love, may have very considerate of each other's feelings.

If a woman and September 16 is your birthday, you are inclined to be very sentimental, perhaps overly sensitive and frequently governed by impulses. The quicker you learn not to harbor grudges and to forgive and forget, the happier you will be. You are very responsive to harmony and influence, especially music. With vision and feeling, you may forestall the expenditure of a great deal of money during various periods of your life. You are, most likely, very tolerant regarding the views of other people, but have very fixed ideas of your own.

Teaching, singing, acting, writing, selling, demonstrating or managing a business may enable you to prove that you possess an unusual amount of ability. Through marriage you may see the realization of some of your most ambitious dreams, and learn the real meaning of happiness.

The child born on September 16 seldom sulks, is inclined to be quick-tempered, very generous and intensely loyal to family and friends. A successful social, professional or business career is generally awaiting children born on this date.

If a man and September 16 is your natal day, you, in all likelihood, take a great deal of pride in doing well whatever you have to do. You appear qualified to be an architect, engineer, artist, sculptor, inventor, musician, journalist or politician.

Personal Health Talks

THE YOUNGER GENERATION

A reader asks for an article setting forth my views or opinion on mothers who smoke and the effect, if any, on their children. The reader says she does not smoke but her daughter does. Her daughter has two sons. The elder son is five years old and has difficulty breathing if not true asthma. The younger son is apparently healthy.

The reader says she has Ben Told. Just between ourselves would this not be a better world if the evasive mood were outlawed and every one referring to Ben Told be entitled to three hearty Bronx cheers upon the mention of Ben's name. . . .

The ice man or the girl who does her hair informed the reader that "the average age of babies born of mothers who smoke is nine years."

I do not know, but I believe that smoking invariably impairs the expectant mother's health more or less, renders her less capable of nursing her baby, and starts the baby off with a handicap. I believe the child born of a smoking mother, or usually presents evidence of faulty nutrition and therefore fails to grow and develop as well as a healthy baby should.

I believe this notwithstanding the advice given by some physicians, even good obstetricians, that if the expectant mother wishes to smoke it is all right and will do no harm to herself or her baby.

Believes Women Should Be Free to Choose Mates

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Has a woman the same right to propose matrimony to the one she wants for a mate as a man has? Why should a girl have to sit around and wait for some boy to happen to notice her instead of going out after him if she can? Why haven't women the right to pick out their husbands just as the men pick out their wives? I have asked a lot of girls what they think about this and some say "No," they would never propose to a boy, but these very girls have used all sorts of wiles and flattery to catch the attention of boys. So why haven't they the courage to pop the question and finish up what they have started?

INQUISITIVE GIRL.

Answer:

I don't know. Perhaps it is because women are more afraid of Mrs. Grundy than they are of anything else on earth. For nothing but a convention prevents them from taking an active instead of a passive part in courtship and proposing to the men they want for husbands instead of taking what they can get.

DOROTHY DIX

I do not think that there is anything else so strange as that women have fought for political freedom until they got it; they have fought for a right to an education until they got it; they have fought for a right to go into the business and professional world on equal terms with men, but they have never raised a finger to fight for the greatest right of all—the right to choose their mates. And, compared with the right to select the kind of a man you want for a husband and the father of your children, the right to vote, or take a college degree, or hold down a job is a poor right, indeed.

I believe that nothing would do more to do away with divorce and promote the general happiness in marriage than for women to be just as free to propose marriage to men as men are to women. I believe that women are wiser in love than men are, and that there would be fewer foolish marriages if they did the picking.

This is proved by the fact that women are not influenced by a man's looks as men are by women's. Very few girls would marry brainless little jelly beans just because they had Greek profiles and permanently wavy hair, yet every day we see men marrying Dumpy Doras just because they have pretty faces.

Nor would we see the sorry spectacle of many rich old women buying boy husbands, nor widows with half a dozen young children picking out boys in their teens to be suitable stepfathers for them. Yet men commit these matrimonial blunders every day.

Furthermore, if every woman got the man she wanted she would be happy and contented, and a contented wife is a good wife. She is on her tiptoes to please her husband and is satisfied with what he can give her. It is the women who have married their opportunists instead of their preferences who are the peevish, discontented wives who take out on their unfortunate husbands their frustration and disappointment.

I am strong for women popping the question, and I urge them to go to it and to use all their salesmanship, just as men do in similar cases, to make the men they want see what good wives they would make, and what a good thing they will miss if they don't marry them. We

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Besides being a famous opera singer, wife and mother to three grown sons, Mme. Lotte Lehmann finds time for swimming, riding, walking, constant practicing and maintains interest in numerous other things.

Discouraged women over fifty frequently make the excuse that a day too full of duties or a life lacking inspiration have caused them to "give up" and let life pass them by. I wonder what the thousands of these complaining women would say if they could follow Madame Lotte Lehmann for just one week! This famous artist of the Metropolitan Opera Company is a wife, mother to three grown sons, and has an all too demanding career on her hands. Besides these, she finds time for swimming, riding, walking, constant practicing, writing of poetry and books, and maintains interest in numerous persons and other things.

How does she do it? The secret is simply that she plans exactly how each hour is to be spent and adheres to a daily schedule. There are no wasted hours in this woman's life. No indeed, for Mme. Lehmann is not content to only re-create great roles on the operatic stage. She has always felt a driving desire to create something entirely her own. A book, a poem, redecorating a room, or something.

Strong Vitality An Asset Mme. Lehmann gives much credit for her success to the radiant vitality which helped her through the early discouragements of her career. She begins her day with a dip before breakfast in a pool or ocean. Or if she is in a city, with a brisk walk through a park. She advises every woman to indulge wholeheartedly in at least one type of outdoor sport as a source of fun as well as of health. If a woman is denied such an opportunity she should then resort to corrective exercises within her own home. A "daily dozen" to keep her circulation up to par.

However, exercise is only a part of Mme. Lehmann's health routine. Diet is also considered. But the gaiety of her character, and the demands of her work, prevent her from taking calories too seriously. Common sense, she claims, does more for the figure than popular diets, and her system is a very simple one. She substitutes citrus fruits for rich desserts and never eats a thing between meals.

"Utilize every available moment for doing something worth while," is her motto, and she practices what she preaches. "Midway in My Song," her recent book, was written "in the midst of the most hectic days, aboard a train or a boat, just before a concert or right after a performance when I was too keyed up to go to sleep."

"Every woman who desires to keep young and in the swim of things should find some source of self-expression. It does not have to be writing, or singing, or acting. If whatever field your talents lie develop them. The mere joy of creating will help maintain the youth-

Good Taste Today
By Emily Post

DIVORCE SITUATIONS

Dear Mrs. Post: It is in questionable taste for a woman to question an engagement ring from a man whose divorce is still in the courts? In other words, should she wait to wear the ring until the decree becomes final?

Answer: She should wait until the divorce is granted before she even considers herself engaged. In fact, she might do well to remember she is still the husband of another woman.

A Man, A Woman, and a Hotel Dear Mrs. Post: An acquaintance of mine recently told me that she and a young man whom she has known and liked considerably for the past year are planning to go for the weekend to a nearby resort hotel, alone. I questioned such a plan and she said frankly that she had never done this before but she felt the weekend in the country air was much more important than the fact that she was flaunting strict proprieties to the winds for the first time in her life. She explained he had a car and going with him would be certainly much more pleasant than going alone. Her frankness shocked me at first and yet I found myself quickly accepting the situation as a matter of course. In this day and age, isn't an attitude like hers more to be admired than criticized?

Answer: In all these cases, it depends tremendously upon where they are going and still more upon their own behavior. If she is going to a hotel in the country where she is known, and to a small hotel, moreover to one to a certain degree chaperons, they will actually be looked after quite as well as though her own Aune Jane had gone on the journey with them. Also, as I have

In reporting some of the imbroglios that I have watched at the bridge table, it would be a sincere pleasure to me and at the same time would add color if I could name the famous experts that were involved. I am, I hope, a reasonably courageous fellow, but, after all, I must live around these experts for some time to come and, of course, self-preservation is an even better law for bridge than it is for life. Besides, one can never tell when these people will break into print somewhere and they might go in for reprisal, bringing my own brainstorms to the light of day. It will have to suffice, therefore, that the following hand was bid and played by four gentlemen who are admitted to be among the first ten players of these United States.

North and South can hardly point with pride to the result of this particular deal. West, heroically keeping a straight face, reeled off seven diamond tricks and then led a spade to his partner's high-low signal. The 1,100 point penalty was unpleasant enough for North-South, but it must have been gall and wormwood when it was immediately discovered that six clubs or six hearts would have been slightly colder than ice. A swing of about 2,500 points cannot easily be explained.

As in most catastrophes, it seems to me that both partners erred considerably. North's three club bid was, of course, all right. South, it is true, had a problem over East's three spades. He had three conceivable bids available. He could bid four hearts, he could raise to four clubs, or he could chance three no trump. In my opinion the first named bid was unquestionably the best and the bid actually selected. With three no trump, by far the worst. With North making a jump bid in the suit that had been opened by his righthand opponent and East able to bid three spades, South should have been highly suspicious about the unmentioned diamond suit, this even before West's penalty double.

Incidentally, I must say that West's double was a strange exhibition of tactics. That he should have relied on both opponents standing this double can only be taken as an indication of great optimism, and the fact that his judgment was not accepted as justification. Probably not once in a thousand times would both North and South stand for this double, and therefore West ran the grave risk of driving the opponents to an iron-clad game or slam contract. Surely, it would have been wise to be satisfied with the 300 or 400 points that would accrue from an undoubted contract.

North was inclined to accept some of the blame for not having run to four clubs, and since he had an intimate knowledge of West's psychic bidding habits, this was perhaps justified self-criticism. The bulk of the blame, however, belonged to South. He also was wickily bidding and should have feared the diamond suit even more than if it had been bid. Admittedly, it would have been very difficult, if not impossible, to reach a slam by safe and logical means, but even a game would have been quite an improvement over the actual result.

written many times before, their own personal attitude toward each other is in some way—though I can't explain how—made apparent to all the people who encounter them. If their own attitude is upright, this is almost certain to be understood, and the chances are that they will be criticized by no one. On the other hand, if they go off together and behave not at all as they should, people will think the worst of them, and tell everybody who will listen what they think. It is true that to go on a holiday together, stopping each night in a different hotel, especially in the city, would be a very foolhardy thing to do.

Old Gardener Says:

Years ago the oxalis was a common house plant and there is no reason why the bulbous kinds should not be grown more freely at the present time. They are excellent for growing in apartment houses, and do not take very much space as they have a semi-trailing habit and therefore may be kept on a shelf or bracket. Their culture is very much like that of freesias and they do not need to be started in the dark. It is not even necessary to plunge them outdoors or in a cold-frame. They will give good results if the potted bulbs are placed immediately in the window. These bulbs need plenty of sunlight, however, and should be given a spot as near as possible to the glass.

Common salt is sure death to slugs. If it is sprinkled about where slugs frequent it will soon exterminate them.

Privet, honeysuckle, and other such plants tend to become overgrown about this time of the year. The long vigorous shoots which are developing should be cut off now to hold the plants in bounds and to harden up the wood of the plant to prevent winter injury.

Diet Is Influential in Behavior of Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

The official reports tell us that many of the criminals caught in the nets of the police are young. They are at the time of greatest happiness, their youth. What is wrong? Many officials point to the schools and say they are not doing their duty by the children. I will agree to that only if society says that the schools have done well what society allowed them to do—teach the subjects of the course of study. That is the limit of freedom any public school enjoys. It has no power to teach anything outside the course, and the course is in the majority of school systems, a book course.

Studying out of books, even under the best and wisest of teachers is not enough to round a child's character. Character training is a matter of personal experiences. And that implies opportunity for the election of certain kinds of behavior. If there is no chance for elected behavior, if behavior is imposed within a rigidly set code, as it is in most public schools in the world, the scope of the teachers' work is extremely limited. It is true that we can teach truth and the beauty of truth through mathematics and its allied branches. We can teach ethics and the better way of life through history and its allied topics. And so on through the course of study. And the teacher's examples are a powerful aid. But with all that there is something else to be remembered, a simple, elemental truth about human children. Few of them have the power to translate book teaching, bookish ideals, into ordinary, everyday behavior. They are too far away. Human children need experiences that can be felt, tasted, hefted, seen, constructed by their own efforts, to learn about life and its ways.

I believe that the first step toward righteous living for children is a good diet. Well-nourished children are happy, well-adjusted children rarely get into trouble with the police. Feed the children and you starve the criminals at the very start.

Happiness is a tonic influence on mind and body. Children live in school if they have the chance. Having the chance means that their school allows the children to stay alive for the hours they spend there. They have work to do, work they enjoy doing; work with their hands as well as with their heads; they play there, real play, not the hushed, muffled smothered play of the silent school; they have friends there, in the teachers and principals; they can laugh and sing and work in earnest because life moves through the school building is much the same spirit as it moves along the streets. Only much cleaner.

If society has given its children such opportunities as these then the blame for youthful crime must lie elsewhere. If society has fed the children heartily, if it has given them decent clean houses where it is easy for them to be clean, easy for them to sleep and rest and cooperate with the family—if society has built and equipped schools that, in their very layouts speak of living, working, singing children, then society is not to blame.

Until society can point to such schools—schools equipped for living—the present day schools can hold up a pair of clean hands. Clean, but empty.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

EAR TO THE KEYHOLE

I looked at my watch, discovered it wanted only five minutes of ten o'clock, and made my way along the highroad up the last of the chalet, to find Jean-Francois already awaiting me.

He clambered down from the wall on which he had been perching and came to meet me. "Monsieur," he said eagerly, "I thank the saints that you are here! So much might have happened to you!"

"Well," I said, as I seated myself in turn on the wall and lit a cigarette, "quite a lot has happened to me since I saw you last, but we'll leave that for the moment. What news have you?"

"First, I made my inquiries as to this Monsieur Dunning, and, monsieur, he is no journalist!"

"I know that already," I retorted rather wearily. "Since I saw you, I've learned a lot about the gentleman; but what else, Jean-Francois? Surely that isn't all?"

"No," he agreed, a trifle chaffing, "there is more, monsieur, and series news." He paused, looking at me obliquely out of his sloe-like eyes. "Why, monsieur, he de-manded, 'does Monsieur Rene Geiss hate you?'"

I shrugged. "What's his latest exhibition?"

"This," said he. "This morning I visited his villa—to collect, you understand, the cigarette-case, that I prudently left there last night. I had the forethought to present myself at the service entrance, and the double forethought to bring with me a third bottle of cognac; and I was therefore well received by the man. The woman, he informed me, had gone to the market. They do not suspect me, those two, for I have told them I am a student on vacation from Paris, with much money to spend but no friends."

"A useful incognito," I commented. "What did the fellow tell you?"

"Monsieur, he told me nothing, for he was harassed beyond words. The huge destruction had come to call upon M. Geiss and had accepted an invitation to remain for lunch. My acquaintance was in despair, for at once he must commence his

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Although William is a star salesman, his wife taught him an invaluable lesson in applied psychology. Be sure to read this case!

CASE J-188: William T., aged 48, is a star salesman. "A month ago we moved to a city in the East," he told me after a large Sunday school rally which I had been invited to address.

"I went on ahead and located a house, while my wife followed two weeks later. When Sunday came, I decided to visit a large church on the corner.

"Being a stranger, I dropped down in a seat a few rows from the back. After the sermon was over, I got up, but nobody said a word to me. Not a soul offered me a smile or a handshake.

"The next Sunday it was the same way. So when my wife arrived, I told her we better hunt a different church, for they were like icebergs in this one.

"But she said she couldn't believe people would be like that. I followed her inside the door. She walked right on down the aisle to the third row from the front.

"And after the sermon, I don't believe I ever shook hands with so many church people at once in my life as that morning. We were signed up for the men's club and the ladies' aid, and treated as if we had been lifelong members of the parish.

"Dr. Crane, how do you account for this radical change? Did I scare people off while my wife attracted them?"

DIAGNOSIS: Where William made his mistake was in dropping into a rear pew of this city church. There he was surrounded by other strangers like himself, each waiting for the other to speak or smile first.

Besides, the rear seat people are likely to be more shy and diffident, anyway, which is one real reason they remain on the back rows. They haven't the nerve to walk down an aisle even though a pleasant usher willingly precedes them.

Stay Off Rear Rows Unless you are farsighted, stay off the rear rows. Go forward and sit among people who are members of the organization. The members are usually more sociable and friendly.

Many churches have been erroneously misjudged, and called stiff or formal, when the critic is really to blame. Before the members can get back to those visitors on the rear seats, the latter have left the building and probably feel like William.

I must confess, of course, that a pleasant, smiling wife will help a great deal in breaking the social ice. Mrs. Coolidge was renowned for her social charm, her graciousness, and warm handshake.

How Wives Help Husbands When many visitors would have felt that Mr. Coolidge was a bit aloof or taciturn, Mrs. Coolidge changed their opinions and won their friendship.

Wives are thus able to make their husbands successful in spite of the latter's shyness. Many physicians and dentists are making money because the graciousness and charm of their wives attracts patients. A charming wife is a great professional asset. I know, for I have one.

Remember this psychological axiom: "People prefer to be friendly." Then why do they act snobbish and aloof? Because they don't know how to start conversations. They don't understand people. They are timid, so they fear to make the first move toward sociability.

Don't hesitate to speak a friendly word, or smile, or shake the hand of your neighbor, even though you are a stranger in the church! Smiles evoke smiles!

The Clouded Moon

fully. "Pathological case indeed! But what then, Jean-Francois?"

"Then!" said the boy, and paused dramatically. "Then, monsieur, the judge spoke. 'I do not wish for more murders! A suicide, yes, with perhaps a signed confession—if the wretched creature was driven to it by his remorse—that would solve all difficulties; but another unsolved murder! That would write finis to my career with a vengeance!'"

"Monsieur Geiss laughed. 'But,' said he, who spoke of unsolved murders? When he killed first, he planned the crime with a savage cunning such cunning that, until I set you on the right path, you did not suspect him. But when he kills again, it will be because his nerve is cracking. He will strike out blindly, ferociously, never caring how he implicates himself. Wait another two, three days, and if I am not right, I will admit to the crime myself!"

"That, monsieur," Jean-Francois continued gravely, "was considered a great joke by the judge, who laughed immoderately, but as sounds indicated that my acquaintance was returning from the kitchen, I fled back to my cleaning and heard no more."

I reflected. The lad's story had the ring of truth, and I could conceive of no reason why, if he were in Geiss's pay, he should have presented me with these two undoubtedly useful gifts of information; and yet the memory of the hidden revolver still lingered.

"Tell me, Jean-Francois," I said on a sudden impulse, "as you approached the chalet this morning, or as you left it, did you see anyone else in the lane—any stranger, I mean?"

"But yes, monsieur," he answered eagerly. "As I came away, I passed a fellow, long, unkempt, shuffling, dust-colored, and more over a little mad, for he muttered to himself as he walked and twisted his fingers. And moreover at times he whistled a strange tune."

"Poor Noah More!"

I almost gasped, for his description tallied uncannily with Dunning's picture of the creature who had delivered the last issue of the Grimoire. "What was the tune he whistled?" I asked curiously.

He pursed his lips, and suddenly I heard a little lilting melody. Half unconsciously I fitted old, half-forgotten words to it, humming them under my breath. "And you'll hear no more of poor Noah More, for poor Noah More's no more!"

"You know it, monsieur?" asked Jean-Francois eagerly.

"I know it all right," I told him. "You've given me just the information I wanted," and forthwith I told him of the story of the hidden revolver. "I've reason to believe," I concluded, "that an individual like the one you describe is working for Monsieur Geiss, and I'd be uncommonly glad if, the next time you see him, you hang on to his coat-tails and find out what he's up to."

Even in the darkness I could see him flush with rage. "Monsieur, I am your man, as you know—to the death, if need be, and I shall never rest until that rat is shut in the cage he deserves. But can you not tell me a little more? Why does he seek to implicate you in the crime?"

"Because," I answered slowly, "I'm inclined to think that he's dangerously connected with it himself. I can't tell you more at the moment." "But there's one thing I want to know. What happens here on the 20th of this month?"

"The 30th?" said he, surprised.

"But that, monsieur, is the date of the braderie! The day which marks the end of the summer season, the day on which all shops sell off their stocks at booths on the main street, the day on which the whole town is en fete and everyone a little mad!"

"I see," I said slowly, "and I'm uncommonly satisfied with what you've done. There's your salary for the next couple of days. Carry on as you're doing; cling to those admirable servants of Monsieur Geiss, and head what you can from them; don't forget to keep an eye open for that vagabond, and report to me here tomorrow night."

"At your service, Monsieur!" he said enthusiastically, and next moment I heard his running footsteps disappear down the lane.

I turned up the little road in the direction of the chalet, but as I neared the gates, a familiar purr made me quicken my steps. The Hispano's engine was running, and I stood back hastily, nearly blinded by the glare of her headlights as she took the bend.

"Oh!" said I, waving an arm as she pulled up. "And what are you up to at this time of night?"

"Hugo wanted his arms on the driving wheel," "It's" said he, "Thank God for that, though I doubted if they'd be so inarticulate as to polish you off the first night. As for me, I'm doing a bit of night-riding. I made a tour of the cafes on the quay after dinner, and found an acquaintance who supplied me with a useful bit of information. The meaning of 'L'Amouric' still eludes me, but the Caves des Muettes is, it appears, a low sort of dive on the main road a couple of kilometers outside of Nice, frequented by fisher-folk and other not so savory patrons. I propose to take a run out there and have a look at it. After all, an author can go anywhere in the search for copy."

"And," said I, as I dropped into the seat beside him, "he can also take a friend with him."

Four instructors who are returning to the Lawrence college faculty after leaves of absence, five new members of the teaching staff and three young women who have been engaged to fill administrative offices are shown above. In the top row, left to right, are four returning professors, Frederick W. Trezise, associate professor of engineering; Dr. Frances Dorothy Bethurum, professor of English; La Vahn K. Maesch, professor of music; and F. Theodore Cloak, associate professor of speech and dramatics.

In the center row, reading in the same direction, are Miss Lucille Palmer, instructor in German; Miss La Tourette Stockwell, instructor in English; John W. Dowling, sophomore tutor; and George A. Douglas, assistant professor in economics and sociology. Miss Katherine Meade, lower left, has been engaged as a nurse in the student infirmary. 5 New Members of Lawrence Faculty and 4 Returning From Leave Will Begin Duties When College Opens

Although the Lawrence college faculty will have in its group this year 11 persons who were not on the teaching staff last year, only 6 of them will be unfamiliar to the campus. Four of them, Dr. Frances Dorothy Bethurum, F. Theodore Cloak, Frederick W. Trezise and La Vahn K. Maesch, will return after leaves of absence of one or more years, and a fifth, Dr. Joseph Harry Griffiths, will be back after a semester's leave of absence.

One of the new faces on the campus will be that of George A. Douglas, Frederick, Md., who has been appointed an assistant professor in the department of economics and sociology. A graduate of the University of Michigan, he received his master's degree at the University of Wisconsin and made a world sociological study trip in 1929. He will take the place of Dr. Louis A. Boettger, professor of sociology, who has been granted a year's leave of absence.

Another newcomer will be Miss La Tourette Stockwell, who has been engaged as a member of the English department. She received her A.B. degree from Smith college in 1926, her M.A. degree from Radcliffe in 1928 and her Ph.D. degree from the same college in 1936. She spent two years in graduate research work at Trinity college, Berlin, and has traveled extensively in both this country and Europe. Before she accepted the Lawrence college post, she was English instructor, assistant to the president and director of public relations at Lake Forest college. Miss Stockwell and Miss Bethurum succeeded Miss Kathryn Dapp and Miss Virginia Schrier who have resigned from the English department.

Instructor in German

Miss Lucille Palmer, a graduate of Pembroke college, associated with Brown university, will be instructor in German, replacing Miss Mary Chalmers. Miss Palmer held an exchange fellowship to Germany from the Institute of International Education and studied at the University of Munich and the University of Berlin. She received her M.A. degree from Brown university in 1933 and her Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois in June of this year.

John W. Dowling, Madison, Neb., has been engaged as sophomore tutor to replace Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, who resigned to accept a position at Scripps college, Claremont, Calif. He received both his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Wisconsin, spent three years at Oxford university, England, and then did additional graduate work at the University of Wisconsin. He was a fellow in Latin at Wisconsin for one semester and an assistant for 16 years in the philosophy department at the University of Illinois.

Miss Katherine P. Meade has been appointed nurse at the college infirmary, succeeding Miss Caroline Stewart. Miss Geneva Blumchen, head nurse, will return after a semester's absence. Miss Meade studied at St. Luke's hospital and at the University of Chicago clinic.

New Grid Coach

Bernard Hesclon will be head football coach and instructor in physical education, succeeding Paul Derr. A graduate of the University of Minnesota, he comes here from Milwaukee East High school, where he was football coach.

Miss Bethurum has been away for a year, doing research work at Yale university and then in Europe. She made a study of manuscripts at the Vatican library at Rome and then continued her work under a Guggenheim Fellowship in England.

F. Theodore Cloak, associate professor of speech and dramatics, has been studying for the last two years at Yale university's school of drama.

LaVahn Maesch, who returns with the rank of professor of music at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, has been doing graduate work at Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. Erie Volkert, who took Mr. Cloak's place during his absence, and Francis Proctor, who substituted for Mr. Maesch, will do graduate work next year.

Trezise Returning

Frederick W. Trezise, associate professor of engineering, has been with the TVA at Knoxville, Tenn., during the last year. Dr. Joseph H. Griffiths, professor of psychology, has been studying in Europe for the last seven months at the universities of Florence, Vienna, Munich, Paris and London.

Two new members of the college administration staff this year. In addition to Miss Meade, are Miss Fern Munroe, new secretary to the president, and Miss Jane Lindsay, assistant to the librarian. Miss Munroe, a graduate of Lawrence with the class of 1938, succeeds Miss Dorothy Fischl, who resigned last month after holding the position for eight years. Miss Munroe, a member of Phi Beta Kappa fraternity, was president of the Geneva club at the college, member of the L.W.A. council and counselor at Ormsby last year.

Ever Wonder Why You're Constipated?

Do you ever have days when you just have to drag yourself along, when you feel tired, sunk—because of that constipation? Then why not find out the real cause of your trouble?

What have you had to eat lately? Just things like meat, bread and potatoes? If that's it, you may not have to look any farther. It's likely your trouble is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If "bulk" is what you lack, your ticket is a dish of crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"!

Fox River Hits New Peak; Gates Are All Opened

Water Floods District in Menasha; Fair Weather Is Promised

Swollen by heavy autumn rains that have swept Wisconsin for more than a week, the Fox river reached its greatest height of the year today.

The United States engineer's office reported that gates from Portage to Green Bay are open. Water from the river surrounded several houses in the section called Libertyville on the west end of the Menasha side of the Twin City island and flooded two streets in that city today.

The west end of Fox street and entire length of Butte des Morts street were covered with water.

The weatherman promised relief from the rains however predicting "generally fair tonight and Friday" in Appleton and vicinity and the state in general. Rising temperatures are expected tomorrow.

The few houses in the section in Menasha that has been invaded by the Fox river are completely surrounded by water. Ducks swim contentedly in the yards and chickens perch disconsolately on whatever they can find out of water.

Boats have been put into operation in the neighborhood and it was reported today that several of the families have vacated.

Waupaca County Hit
Although the rains in Waupaca county have lessened the last 24 hours, the Wolf river is still overflowing its banks and has inundated yards and lawns of homes in the lowlands.

A bridge in the town of Lind on a town road in Waupaca county was washed out this week. The torrential rains have caused extensive damage to county roads.

For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 70 and the lowest 52, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. At 1:30 this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 55 degrees.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 100, and Yellowstone, with 38, were the hottest and coldest cities respectively in the nation yesterday.

Getting Angry Is No Solution to Traffic Tangles, Council Says

There are quite a few drivers—normally courteous at other times—who "lose their tempers permanently" once they get behind the wheel of a car, the National Safety Council points out.

These "traffic grouches" fume and rant when someone else goes first, ruining their disposition, their driving, and boosting their blood pressure to unnecessary heights.

The National Safety council suggests that a smile at the moment when you're in the middle of a traffic tangle will be helpful to both you and the other fellow—even if it's forced.

ARIZONA RACE

Phoenix, Ariz.—(P)—State Senator R. T. Jones, Phoenix druggist, appeared assured of the Democratic nomination for the Arizona gubernatorial election when his lead increased to 1,865 votes in returns from 358 complete and 61 incomplete precincts of the state's 433.

Jones had 33,785 votes to 31,920 for Secretary of State James H. Kerby, and 30,398 for Sidney P. Osborn, Phoenix publisher.

Jerrie W. Lee, Phoenix, was unopposed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

United States Senator Carl Hayden and Representative John R. Murdock both Democrats, won easy victories.

Baltimore—(P)—The outcome of Maryland's four-way race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination awaited today the official canvass of votes, with a possibility it might not be decided before the party convention Sept. 28.

The contest was unlike the senatorial primary, where Senator Millard E. Tydings, placed on the administration's political blacklist, was victorious over Representative David J. Lewis, who ran with the voiced approval of President Roosevelt. Tydings had a clear majority over both Lewis and Arthur E. Hungerford, so the second-choice system was not called into play.

In the gubernatorial race, Attorney General Herbert R. O'Connor appeared to be sure of 61 first-choice convention votes, of 75 needed to nominate. Mayor Howard W. Jackson had 41; Comptroller William S. Gordy, Jr. 16; and Senate President Lansdale G. Sasser, 13.

In instances where a state is near its quota and cannot make up its mind between one large project or a group of smaller ones, officials said PWA will act independently.

Sportsmen Hear Game Farm Head At Waupaca Meet

Superintendent Addresses 125 Members of Conservation League

Waupaca—Guy Mumbrue, vice president of the Conservation league, presided at a meeting of that body Monday evening during the absence of the president, Dr. A. M. Christoffersen. One hundred and twenty-five members were present to hear a detailed report of the Poynette game farm, operated by the Wisconsin Conservation department, by the superintendent of the farm, H. C. Kellogg. His talk was illustrated with moving pictures taken at the farm.

An electric incubator, having a capacity of 100,000 eggs, hatches 18,000 birds every three or four days, he said. More than 175,000 pheasants were stocked at the farm this year and 1,000 black raccoon.

The farm and the state of Wisconsin furnish 50 per cent of mink for propagation purposes in the United States, and 45 per cent of the fox.

The club unanimously favored a 10-day season for cisco and Einar Torsell, Paul Williams and Milton Laux were appointed as a committee to investigate and report to E. E. Browne Wednesday. At that time Browne would go to Madison to take the matter before the conservation commission, of which he is a member, and endeavor to get a favorable response from that commission.

Refreshments were served by George Law and Claude Paris of the Wisconsin Veterans Home.

County Roads in Fair Condition

Flares Warn Motorists of Soft Shoulders in Many Places
Waupaca—Despite heavy rains, roads in Waupaca county are in "fair condition," according to a statement Wednesday by Charles W. Larson, county highway commissioner. In many places shoulders are soft and flares have been placed to warn motorists of the condition.

The bridge over Stillman creek, on County Trunk X, between Northport and Weyauwega, is being replaced after rising waters washed out a concrete culvert.

Earlier in the week Sheriff D. R. Campbell was notified that ten inches of water was covering Highway 10 near Sheridan and a minor automobile accident was the result. County roadmen were informed at midnight and went to the spot at once. Flares now warn travelers of conditions at that point.

The bridge over the Pigeon river on County Trunk G, in the northern part of the county is closed, with water over the roads for some distance. Water is also over the road on Highway Y at Embarras, making travel difficult.

In the city of Waupaca, homes along the Waupaca river have suffered losses of gardens which have long been inundated; the water being higher than at any time on record.

was second. Just after it passed the group, the Schroeder child ran across the highway into the path of the southbound Kling machine, it was reported.

The girl crossed to the west side of the highway, Dohr said, apparently because that is the side the school is on and the side on which the children are accustomed to walk. None of the other youngsters was injured.

Kling stopped immediately. He and the girl's father took the fatally injured child to the hospital. Dohr said Kling was going about 40 miles an hour at the time. There were three other persons in the Kling car. None was hurt.

Members of the jury who viewed the body this morning are Harry De Busin, William Tiedt, Edwin Schueler, George E. Schaefer, Elmer Schneider, and Roy Menning, all from route 1, Appleton.

Born at New London in 1933 the Schroeder girl was a third grade pupil in the High Ridge school.

Survivors besides the parents are: one brother, Harold, at home; the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Seifer, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder, Appleton.

Police reported today that car driven by Harold E. Gebheim, 20, 1739 N. Alvin street, and Francis Chatur 24, 1204 W. Summer street, collided at the intersection of N. Superior and W. Summer streets early Wednesday morning. The cars were damaged, but none of the occupants injured.

Students Gather For 1st Time in New Auditorium

Lyceum Speaker Impressed With New Senior School Facilities

"This is a marvelous building, and I feel distinctly honored to be here," declared Dr. Frank G. Sawyer, first of the lyceum speakers, at the Appleton High school Wednesday afternoon. "I have never seen so much for a million dollars in all my life. All Appleton is to be congratulated."

The occasion was a momentous one for the first time all the students were gathered in the auditorium of the new building. The spontaneous cheers which broke out on the main floor indicated that students as well as the speaker were impressed.

The assembly is, indeed, just added proof that Appleton has "the finest high school in the state of Wisconsin." The fact that each word of the speaker could be distinctly heard even in the recesses of the room indicates that the auditorium is acoustically perfect. Oak paneling, rose and grey walls, 1664 red leather seats, and concealed lighting make it attractive to the eye as well.

An orchestra pit large enough for 60 musicians, a projection room, a public address system, a stage finer than any professional one in the state, all these make it possible to present any type of program.

Dr. Sawyer's address, "Are You a Thoroughbred?", was well adapted to the mood of his audience. He challenged his listeners "to go out and win." Annabelle Dorman, accompanied by David Bliss at the piano, presented a violin solo, "Sous-nir De Sarsate" by Pottstock.

Hi-Y Alumni to Meet Tonight to Form Club

The Roth Hi-Y club will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening to elect officers and discuss the season's program.

WHEN YOU BUILD THIS FALL--

these 3
POINTS!

- (1) You want a Truly
CONVENIENT HOME-
- (2) You want a Really
ECONOMICAL HOME-
- (3) You want an Honest
WELL-BUILT HOME-

-- And The Answer Is --

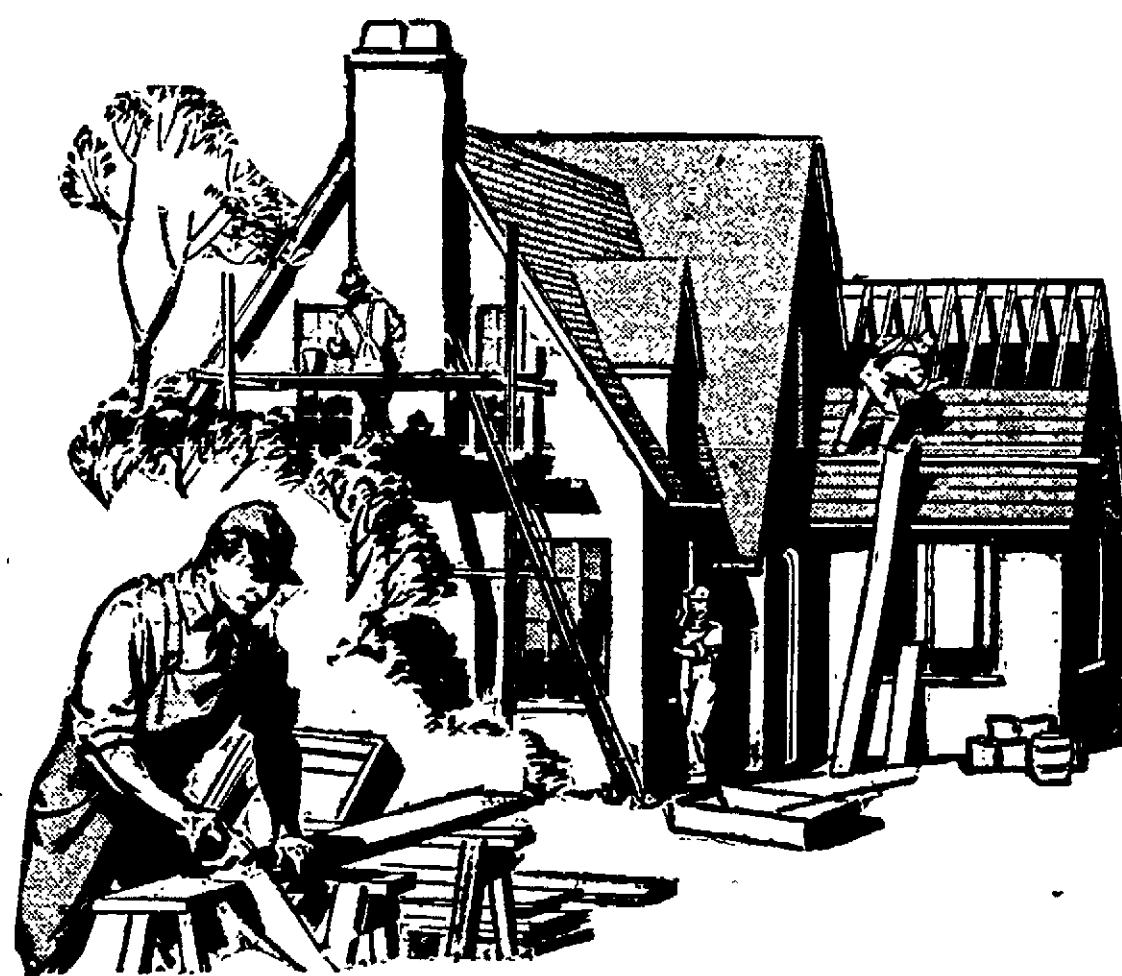

Have "DURHAM" Build Your Home

With most folks, building a home is a "once in a life-time event"—climaxing years of dreaming and planning — Naturally every family has distinctly individual ideas which they wish incorporated into a convenient, economical and honest well built home at the lowest possible cost consistent with quality materials and craftsmanship.

We are familiar with all the problems confronting home builders — Years of experience in building every type of home has given us a practical insight into home building and perfected a thoroughly trained and efficient organization which we place at your disposal.

Our planning department, in charge of responsible men will plan your home, incorporating your ideas, your individuality into exact detailed plans — suggesting short-cuts here — effecting economies there — yet sacrificing no vital details. . . .

We take all the responsibility from the time we submit these complete, accurate plans and specifications of exactly the type of home you want, until we turn the completed home over to you — exactly as you've always dreamed and pictured it.

YOU'LL BE PROUD TO WELCOME FOLKS IN A DURHAM BUILT HOME.

Home Building Costs NOT Excessive!

When making a comparison of building costs do not make the mistake of comparing present costs with those of the depression years — Make your comparison with the period of 1925 to 1927, which is a NORMAL and FAIR comparison.

We will be glad to furnish you these figures and show you where, at practically the same cost you can get a much better home.

This compares favorably, for instance, with the purchase of an automobile — the purchase price of a 1938 auto being about the same as 1925, yet there is no comparison in the value received.

A HOME BUILT THIS FALL WILL COST YOU NO MORE THAN A HOME BUILT IN 1925 — YET THERE WILL BE MORE QUALITY, MORE CONVENIENCE AND BETTER WORKMANSHIP IN THE HOME YOU BUILD NOW!

Take Advantage of Present Easy Home Financing Plans!

No family need be deprived of home ownership now! Right now, home financing and home building is easier than ever before in the history of our country. Hundreds of families are taking advantage of the FHA, and Building and Loan plans, making it possible to build a home on terms considered impossible a few years ago.

We have a special department which will be glad to explain to you all the details relative to loans and home financing. Consult us, we will gladly arrange all the details for you.

Story of Grignon Home Is Related at Meeting Of Friendly Folks Club

Neenah—For better appreciation of the Grignon home at Kaukauna which club members will tour Sept. 28, Mrs. Virginia Clough presented a brief history of the Grignon home at the 230 Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Friendly Folks club at the Twin City Y. W. C. A. as the first meeting of the fall and winter was held.

The Grignon home, purchased by Augustine Grignon who had the materials for the home, which was to be a fur trading post, brought over water from the East, is one of the historical edifices in the Fox River valley still intact. Mrs. Clough told the group. She discussed briefly the social gatherings at the home, why mail was received but twice a year, and why the Grignon home was the gathering place, the "stopping off place" for travelers.

Mrs. Clough stated that the Outagamie County Historical society had asked the Kaukauna City Council to appropriate $4,000 to help renovate the home. If the city appropriate such an amount, the county will appropriate the same and the society will raise the remainder of the amount needed to purchase the home. "If such action was taken," said Mrs. Clough, "it is probable that the home would be run on a similar plan as is the Doty cabin."

The club will meet at the Y at 2 o'clock Wednesday, Sept. 28, where transportation will be provided to Kaukauna. The group will return to the Y after the tour for tea, the

Weather Delays Gymnasium Work

Pour Basement Concrete For $16,000 Winnebago Day School Structure

Neenah—Although progress in the construction of the $16,000 gymnasium at Winnebago Day school has been held up in the last week because of the rainy weather, concrete foundation walls have been poured and workmen will complete pouring the basement floor this week, according to Richard H. Bell, director of the school.

Work was almost an impossibility last week and much time this week has been devoted to removing mud and water left from the rains. The footings for the steel girders have been placed, as well as the outside foundations. The gymnasium playing floor itself will be 77 by 55 feet in dimensions while there will be five small rooms along the front of the building.

Twenty-eight tons of steel for the support of the building are expected to arrive by truck next week. Getting the steel to the location has been a problem, but by going through a vacant lot and skirting several houses, the truck will be able to bring the steel to the site, Mr. Bell said. Some of the steel girders will be over 50 feet long as all beams for the gymnasium are of one-piece steel construction.

The gymnasium will be of frame construction in a style similar in period to that of the main school building. C. R. Hansen, Neenah, is the contractor. Construction of the building will be pushed as rapidly as possible to make up for the time lost because of the weather and to complete the structure on schedule. It is planned to have the building ready for occupancy about the middle of November. A dedication program will be held.

Make Further Plans For Leaders' School

Neenah—Further plans for the leadership school which will be held in Winnebago county Sept. 27 through 28, were made at a meeting of the executive committee last week at the office of R. C. Heffernan, county agricultural agent. The school will be conducted in the Allenville Grange hall.

It was reported that Marinette county will send representatives to the school and they will stay for the week. Other representatives from surrounding counties will go home every night.

It was planned to have the women of Allenville serve meals to the representatives. Each county is allowed to send one representative for each of its various rural organizations. The object of the school is to train these representatives in rural leadership so that they can present their knowledge to others in the county. John Bradford, of the United States Department of Agriculture, will be the instructor.

County Lime Project To Get Underway Soon

Neenah—Plans are being completed for a WPA lime project in Winnebago county, according to R. C. Heffernan, county agricultural agent. The project has been approved for the county and funds have been appropriated. Several quarries have been located throughout the county and it is expected that operations will begin soon.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent and its editorial, circulation and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. This number also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

500 Expected at Germania Society Jubilee Banquet

Group Will Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary at Lodge Hall Tonight

Menasha—Five hundred persons are expected to help celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Germania Benevolent society at the banquet at 6:30 tonight at the lodge hall. Officers and trustees of the society will give short talks following the dinner and Albert H. Schaefer, of La Crosse, formerly of Menasha, will be the main speaker. M. F. Crowley will be the toastmaster.

In addition the viewpoint of a young member of the society will be given and the oldest member also will speak. Robert Hille, 312 Chute street, has been a member of the society 57 years.

The present Germania society is the combination of two German organizations. The Concordia society for the cultivation of singing and to provide other entertainment was organized by 21 German men of the community on Dec. 1, 1886. First officers were Dr. Henry Stark, president; Karl Krebs, secretary, and F. H. Schrage, treasurer.

Site Given in 1860

Curtis Reed donated the site, in 1860 which led to construction of the present hall on Chute street. Only $27.50 was in the treasury and an assessment of $10 was levied on each member. Although the hall was a mere frame structure that lacked even plaster, the first ball was held on July 4, 1862. The benefit feature of the present society also was included in its early organization.

The Menasha Turnverein, a group organized to cultivate the old German gymnastic exercises and which included sick benefits to members, was formed in 1862. There was hardly room for the two societies with similar functions and after long negotiations, the two were united in 1888, taking the name of the Germania Benevolent society. Leo Neubauer, Henry Bachmann, John Trost, Werner Wenz and Michael Schwartzbauer were instrumental in bringing about the union. Julius Fievetger for many years served as secretary of the Concordia society and later of the Germania society.

Open Eight Gates in Dams at Twin Cities To Lower Lake Level

Neenah—In order to lower the level of Lake Winnebago, four gates at the Neenah dam and four at the Menasha dam have been opened. The water going over the dams is about 14 inches above the crest, while it was reported at Oshkosh that the level of Lake Winnebago is 18 1/2 inches over the crest of the Twin City dams.

Although rivers and creeks in the county are swollen almost to flood stage, there are no flood conditions in the county.

The total precipitation so far this year, is 36.52 inches, only 5.13 inches short of the all-time annual record of 41.65 inches set in 1890. With three and one-half months remaining, it is likely that the 41-year-old record will be broken. So far this month there has been 6.74 inches of precipitation.

Wet Field Forces Rockets to Hold Indoor Practice

Coch Christoph Outlines Offense Plans for League Campaign

Neenah—The first scrimmage session of the season scheduled for the Neenah High school football squad Wednesday afternoon was postponed because of the mucky condition of the gridiron.

A "skull" practice was held in the gymnasium in lieu of the proposed scrimmage, and Coach George Christoph outlined the Red Rockets' offensive attack for the Northeastern Wisconsin conference grid campaign. The coach plans to hold a scrimmage some time this week.

The coach charted several plays for the 50 candidates for the varsity, following which Harvey Leaman, assistant grid coach, drilled the griders in calisthenics. Because the Rockets' season doesn't open until Saturday, Sept. 4, when Neenah clashes with Kaukauna here, the coach isn't worried at the lack of outdoor practice. He explained yesterday that he has a better chance to drill the boys in plays and signals as well as to get them into better physical condition.

Strong Contender

With 12 lettermen composing this year's edition, the Rockets will be a stronger contender for the conference title, and at least, they will be a menace to other championship minded conference eleven. Although Christoph is worried over the gaps in the quarterback and center positions, he maintains hopes of converting ends into the backfield and developing a likely center. Arthur Jackson is the only candidate for the pivot job.

Besides his 12 lettermen, Christoph has some likely material Dean Sword, Roy Douglas, Edward Levandoski, Oliver Evans, Buxton Kettering, Jerry Johnson, Richard Meyer, Clifford Bunker, Harold Taves, Harold Holverson, Tom Christofferson, Robert Hackstock, Fred Haselow, Robert Drews, and others. These boys saw action last year but didn't get their letters.

The Rockets will have a heavy and fast team, and they are expected to show an improvement over last year's eleven on offense.

It Is Said--

That some Menasha residents are doubtful of the running ability of Black Hat, a race horse owned by Jim Gibson. The horse, which had been winning consistently during the season, was entered in the eighth race at the Hawthorne track Wednesday. Some of the boys collected a pool in order to place a bet on the race but the horse was an "also-ran." Gibson was at Chicago to see the races.

Movie Land Its People and Products

Once again the King and Queen of Movie Land are co-starred in a sensational thrill picture, "Too Hot to Handle" which will reach the screen as the latest successor to "Test Pilot." This time Gable plays a daring newsreel cameraman, and Myrna Loy a round-the-world aviatrix.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—As war clouds threaten over quarring Europe, a pall of gloom is settling over Hollywood. The film industry faces not only the loss of approximately one-third of its total market, but also the loss of many of its most valuable personalities. Almost all of our foreign actors, directors, writers and technicians are reservists in the armies of their native countries. Within twenty days after the outbreak of hostilities, the majority of them will have been recalled for active service. Others are subject to draft.

The English contingent is largest. David Niven, Ronald Colman, Ray Milland, Reginald Denny, Arthur Treacher, Donald Crisp and Patrick Knowles are among those on call. Richard Greene and a number of other youngsters can be and would be summoned. Fernand Grvael is a reserve officer in the Belgian service; Robert Florey, Charles Boyer and Georges Rigaud are under oath of France. Several writers and directors owe allegiance to Germany and we have a smaller but still important delegation from Mussolini. For the past few weeks, those foreigners have been in an agony of apprehension and the wrinkles on their brows are such that no amount of grease paint and powder can hide them. The studios have invested millions in these foreign best-bets and now it seems that war is going to rake in the jack pot. Now you can understand why producers have always urged their imported players to become American citizens.

CUFF NOTES: Tune the wedding chimes for Glenda Farrell and Van Smith—no date fixed, but it will be sometime this fall. Dick Powell and Joan Blondell will press-preview baby Ellen on the nineteenth—it's also their second wedding anniversary. That Glenn Morris divorce, to date, is only a spatter—the fireworks will explode next week. The current told-it-da-nobe epidemic is delaying production in all studios with loss already estimated at half a million. The Arleen Whelan-Richard Greene alliance is due any day now—Richard's mama, here from England, has given her official okay. Separation seems to agree with Luise Rainer, too—she's gained eleven pounds. Start cheering at news that Sonja Henie will do more acting and less skating in her next picture—she returns from Norway next month. Draw a pair of hearts, entwined, around the names of Margaret Lindsey and Bob Abbott—her first admitted romance. Darling of the American Legion conventioners in Martha (Legs) Raye—she's wearing a grin, but the boys haven't noticed it yet. Jeanette MacDonald also rates a citation for teeing the gold star mothers. Barbara Stanwyck has been given a 100% bill of health—it's her first since that accident three years ago. Edward Arnold, Jr. is making his first stab at a screen career in papa's new picture. English actors working in "Dawn Patrol" received secret orders four weeks ago to stand by—just in case. Remember that ear-splitting, soul-scorching roar of the ice avalanche in "Spawn of the North"? Actually, it was a composite sound effect, produced and recorded on a studio stage. Paramount soundsters, using old sound trucks, blended the squeak of a cat-

Kennel Club Heads Give Demonstration Of Show Procedure

Neenah—Twenty persons attended the dog show demonstration conducted by local officers of the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club last night at Riverside park pavilion. The officers who conducted the demonstration were Otis Hayes, secretary, Frank Fadner, vice president, and Norm Nye, director. Couillard, Milwaukee, judge, the members will map the final plans and appoint committees.

apult from "The Crusades" the staccato bark of a machine gun volley, the boom of an exploding big shell and the crackling rumble of a thunder storm. But the fifth ingredient was necessary to give their effect that certain something. It was the greatly amplified squeal of a suckling pig.

BELLS AND NO-BELLS: A resounding peal to M-G-M for its "Crime Doesn't Pay" shorts—a lengthy stride in a swell direction... a bong on that brassy going to stars' relatives who start small businesses and try to cash in by advertising the relationship. Best picture of the week: "Too Hot to Handle"—Impossible, perhaps, but so entertaining! John Barrymore rings the best-performance bell as the football-minded governor in "Hold That Coed"...

A joy-our tinkle to Aunt Cissie for at least allowing Freddie Bartholomew to wear long pants... A carillon to studio publicity departments which keep on pleasantly serving all comers in spite of the current beefs... and a dead silence to the chiseler who is suing Joan Bennett because his car slipped on mud washed off her lawn...

APPLETON, WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1938

Zephyrs Point For an Upset

Experienced Menasha
St. Mary Team Plays
Appleton Saturday

MENASHA — St. Mary High school gridders again will open their football season against Appleton High school in the role of underdogs, primed with the hope of defeating the Terrors. The two teams will meet at 2:15 Saturday afternoon at the Lawrence college field.

Although they will enter the game on the short end of the odds, the Zephyrs will be in an excellent position to pull an upset. Coach Marvin Miller has a veteran lineup with experienced players for almost every post.

The line will be heavy with a majority of lettermen. One tackle post will be filled by Jerome Linkowski, who weighs at least 230, while the other will be filled by Schwarzbauer, who goes about 180 pounds. The guards will be Rothe and Dan Tuschschere, both experienced players. Fred Picard has been handicapped by a cold this week but undoubtedly will start at one end post. Tommy Day and Bill Coenen are both inexperienced but are aggressive and are battling for the other end post.

Franski at Center
Reuben Franski, who is outstanding on defense, will get the call at center. The backfield is fairly well set with Frank Schipplinger at quarterback, Eugene Laux and Ernie Koerner at halfbacks, and Bill Resch at fullback.

The backfield will have speed and deception on running plays but Coach Miller has devoted much time in practice this week to uncovering a passer to succeed Jim DeYoung. DeYoung tossed the pass which gave the Zephyrs their touch-down against Appleton last year.

Question marks as far as the St. Mary team is concerned will be their ability to absorb the pounding of the heavy Appleton line and means of stopping the sweeps of Sonny Filz. Coach Miller has put the Zephyrs on defense this week with the second team using Appleton plays in an attempt to smooth out the St. Mary defensive work.

St. Paul Evens Play-Off Series

Squeezes Out 9 to 7 Victory Over Milwaukee Brewers

MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Brewers returned home today to continue their semi-final playoff series with the St. Paul Saints who evened the score at one game apiece by squeezing out a 9 to 7 victory over the Brewers last night.

More than 3,000 fans at St. Paul witnessed the free slugging exhibition and saw the Saints break a 7-all tie by driving in two seventh-inning runs on three singles off George Blaholder.

Blaholder replaced young Tommy Reis in the fourth after Reis yielded six runs and eight of the Saints' total of 14 hits.

Big Fourth Innings
Milwaukee's batting attack lapsed after a big fourth inning rally netted four runs on Reis' single, a base on balls to Roy Johnson, Mickey Heath's double, a base on balls to Ted Gullic and a double by Fred Schulte.

Milwaukee 102 400 000—7 11 1
St. Paul 320 200 200—9 14 1

Reis, Blaholder, P. Wengertner (3), Beckler, Phelps, Klaerner (3), Chelini (4) and Silvestri.

In the other semi-final series, the Kansas City, playing at home, went one up over Indianapolis by winning a ten-inning game, last night. The score was 3 to 2. The Blues went scoreless until the ninth, when two singles and a double tied the count at 2-all. In the tenth, Bill Matheson singled home the winning run.

Two Australians Only Foreigners Left in National Tennis Tourney

BY GAYLE TALBOT

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. — Foreign competitors, visibly uneasy, were spending more time around the press box asking for the latest "war" news from Europe than in watching the matches as the national tennis championships reached the quarter final stage today.

Except for a pair of Australians, Jack Bromwich and Harry Hopman, they all had been eliminated from the men's title hunt, leaving six Americans in virtual command of the situation. But the defeated British, French and Yugoslav delegates still were around, wondering if they would receive calls to hurry home and not to go on west for the Pacific coast events.

Henner Henkel was the only German sitting in the players' stand. He was ordered to return home a fortnight ago, after the German Davis cup team lost to the Australians in the inter-zone final, but he has lingered here as a spectator. Friends of the popular young player are worried at his apparent disobedience of orders.

Feature Match
Top interest in the tournament today was centered on the quarter-final tilt between Gene Maeko and Gilbert Hunt, Jr., two unseeded young men with big ideas. Maeko says he will play his famous doubles mate, Don Budge, in Sunday's final.

Hartnett's Disputed Home Run Gives Bruins 6 to 3 Win Over Boston

BOSTON — (AP) — Manager Gabby Hartnett's disputed home run in the third inning yesterday enabled his Chicago Cubs to wind up their 1938 relations with the Boston Bees with a 6-3 victory. The Cubs took the season's series, 12 games to 10.

Hartnett's grand slammer cleared the left field wall close to the foul line and the Bees stormed around Umpire Barker for several minutes after he ruled in the Chicago pilot's favor.

Gabby's winning clout was made against starter Lou Fette, with two out and the count two and two. Fette had filled the bases by passing Hack and Herman and hitting Reynolds with a pitched ball.

The Cubs made only six hits off three Boston pitchers while the Bees landed on the Veteran Charley Root for 11 scattered safeties.

GIANTS UPSET PIRATES
New York — (AP) — The Giants tossed a large monkey wrench into the already tangled National league pennant race yesterday by whipping the pace setting Pittsburgh Pirates in both ends of a doubleheader, 3 to 0 and 10 to 3, before a crowd of 28,185 at the Polo grounds.

The net result of this development was to slice the Pirates' league lead to 2½ games over the Chicago Cubs, and raise the Giants to a tie for third place with the Cincinnati Reds, a game back of the Cubs.

Hal Schumacher, coming off the sore-arm list, "sinker-balled" the Bucs to defeat with seven hits in the opener. His mates climbed aboard Cy Blanton for two runs in the first frame and added the third when Alex Kampouris crack-

WADHAM'S OIL bowlers were the big shots of the Industrial league at Arcade alleys last evening with a high team game score of 999 and high series of 2,819. Joe Reynebau helped the Wadhams Oil cause along with a top individual count of 234 while Orville Strutz of Johnson Shoe Rebuilders piled up a 614 series.

Power company only had four men but that was all they needed to take two games from Johnson Shoe Rebuilders and drop the 1937-38 co-champions from a first place tie. Mike Sakallaris led the assault with a 571 series and 215 game. Strutz topped the Shoe squad with his 614 series on games of 224 and 211 while Pete Delain tallied a 229 game.

Schlafers Supply company keylers were the victims of the Wadhams Oil pin spree and failed to win a game. Reynebau finished with a 587 series. F. Yolg rolled a 215 game and R. Kranhold hit 204 for the winners. Clarence Below was tops for Schlafers' with a 470 series.

Coated Loses Three
Jay Bushey hammered the maps for a 563 series and 207 game at Montgomery-Ward took Coated Paper for a 3-game ride. Wilmer Schmidt spilled the pins for a 204 game and 528 series to lead the losers.

Machine Company collected three games from Fox River to gain a tie for first place. Both Jerry Oswald and Len Durhams hit series of 500 for the winners and Everett Wegner was high for Fox River with a 511 total.

Horace Davis, Jr., was hot with a 228 game and 574 series as Post-Crescent picked up two games from Atlas Printers. Eddie Starnard pinned a 201 game for the winners while Arnold Meyer had a 547 series. U. VanderVelde rolled 203 and 200 and W. Klein hammered a 217 game.

Seims Is High
Pounding the drives for a 591 series on games of 211 and 217, Myron Seims led Pond Sports in a 2-game victory over Plank Dandy Rollers. Bud Plank was high for the losers with a 524 series.

Tuttle Press broke into the win column with a 2-game margin over Telephone company. Chet Merkle rolled a 506 series and B. Blaikowsky a 207 game for Tuttle while Roy McCallum was the high man in the telephone crew with a 215 game and 567 series.

Woolen Mills stayed in a first place tie but dropped one game to Atlas Embossers. Lee Parlment showed a 595 series and 211 game for Woolens while George Ritter steamed in a 585 series on games of 210 and 213 and L. Vander Velde had a 200 count for the losers.

Rain Delays Feature Race at Indiana Fair

Indianapolis — (AP) — Greyhound, holder of the world's trotting record of 1:56 for a mile, and Her Ladyship, world's champion pacing mare with a 1:58½ record, may have to forego trials for new international speed marks on the state fairgrounds track here.

Sep Palin of Indianapolis, driver and trainer of the horses, said he doubted whether the track would be dry enough for the attempts before he starts taking horses from his Indianapolis stable tomorrow to Lexington, Ky., for the grand circuit racing there.

Rain has forced postponement of two scheduled trials.

Softball Finals Rained Out 3rd Time at Chicago

Chicago — (AP) — Four softball teams scanned the skies today and hoped they'd be able to settle the men's and girls' championships in the international tournament tonight. The finals were rained out for the third time last night.

Barry another dose of rain. Pohlar's of Cincinnati will meet the International Harvesters of Little Rock, Ark., in the men's final and the Alameda, Calif., Kriggs will play Chicago's Down Drafts for the girls' title.

Clintonville Drops First Playoff Game

RAMBLINGS OF A SPORTS EDITOR: To Marion in the afternoon to get some football pix and meet the new coaches. . . . We wonder all the way over whether the light will hold, whether it will rain and whether the ball game at Clintonville in the evening will be washed out. . . . The Purgolds arrive shortly after 4 and we grab a pix of Jumbo Elandt, the outstanding member of the squad which last year won a title. . . . Then Coach Mike Foley arrives and he's glum because of the loss of last year's stars and when he gets the boys together it's obvious he has work; and ditto Lloyd Meiners, his assistant, starting his first year at Marion. . . .

The pix taken we set out for Clintonville for more pix and soon run into rain. . . . It's a shower, sometimes heavy, sometimes not. . . . Coach Swede Johnson has his Clintonville proteges out despite the mud and rain. . . . You aren't muddy enough, he tells them. He's got a job, too. . . . The boys are rather young and slight and lack experience. . . . First of all they've got to drive, drive, drive, drive if they're going to get places.

It's raining again but Swede keeps the lads out. . . . Now it's pouring, and he finally relents but it's almost quarter of 6. . . . There goes the baseball game right down the river. . . . But the diamond is of sand, maybe it'll absorb the water. . . .

Crowd's coming in nicely now. . . . What's that saying, 'No rain nor storm, nor mud nor wind'—can stop Clintonville from having its ball game. . . . Red Smith looks like a hippo as he plods through the mud after that foul. . . . But he tries, anyway. . . . Lucy Alberts is terribly nervous, never saw him act that way before. . . . Pressure. . . . Tomlin is doing well what with Red Smith very much in charge of the situation. . . . Isn't hard to see now why he does so well with young ball players down at Hop-town. . . . Looks like Maury Brault is going to try to steal Red's shirt . . . or his pants. . . . There, he just pilfered second. . . . But Red got him trying for third. . . .

Look at Joe Peteka playing away up in back of first base. . . . He's trying to sneak up and take a quick throw from Smith when the infielders all dash in on that attempted bunt and the runner figures the base is uncovered. . . . There's two runs for Two Rivers, the pressure got the Trucks. . . . Ah, a chance to tie the score with a man on and none down. . . . Ankerson gets a hit. . . . But why, oh why, did Huffman try to reach home on that single. . . . And now look, he might have counted standing up. . . . Well, 'twas pressure, I guess.

Just a few paragraphs a Chicago scribe wrote the other day after a fanning bee:

Honus Wagner, with a "chaw" tucked in one cheek, was telling Clarence Rowland, the Cubs' generalissimo, about the time he went deer hunting with only a sledgehammer. . . . "And alongside this path down which the deer would come to the spring was a nice, big tree," Wagner explained.

"I got on one side of it with the sledgehammer and waited. Pretty soon a deer came mincing down the line. Just as he stuck his head past the tree I swung. Well, sir, I'd forgotten about the tree being on the wrong side of the path for me and I had to swing left-handed. I missed the deer and came around and hit the tree so hard I broke the hammer and both wrists."

"That, of course, ended the hunting for that day, but next afternoon I was back again with a new hammer, and after I took a few practice cuts to get used to hitting left-handed I killed 10 deer with 10 swings. Right on the head every time. They're great hunters. . . . deer!"

He looked at his watch. "Well, past bedtime. . . . guess I'll retire," he said. "Good night." As he walked away Rowland found his voice. "Why, you old . . . " he called after Wagner. "The wrists knitted overnight, I guess."

Now and then "Hans" will slip into a fanning bee and if "Red" Lucas is in, sooner or later "Red" will be on his way elsewhere, foaming at the mouth. "It was the funniest thing," Wagner was saying the other day. "I hit that ball out of the park with the bags loaded and nobody scored. Yes, sir. Well, you see the first time I pulled one so close to the left-field foul line that the umpire called it foul. It made me mad and I belted the next one over the center-field wall and turned the umpire. 'Call that one foul if you so-and-so,' I told him. And you know what he did? Put me out of the game and nobody scored."

Wagner had another unique experience in the Boston Bees' park which always seems to stick in his memory whenever he catches Lucas in a corner. It seems that one day he took a terrific cut at a pitch and the ball sailed out over the fence and the railroad tracks beyond. A switch engine was passing at the time and the ball dropped into its smokestack.

"Of course, it looked like a home run," Honus explained "but just as the ball went into the stack the engine let out a blast of smoke and blew the thing out again and back over the fence into the hands of the umpire. 'Call that one foul if you so-and-so,' I told him. And the breaks in this game."

Two Rivers Winner Despite Four Hits Off Tomlin

SCORE IS 4 TO 3

Truckers Break Under Pressure and Give 2 Runs in Ninth

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
CLINTONVILLE — Ability to play the better ball under pressure, when the chips were down, the heat on or whatever you may want to call it, gave Two Rivers a 4 to 3 decision over Clintonville here last night and the first win in the series to decide the Northern State league pennant.

The pressure was on so heavily last night that the lid threatened to blow off almost any minute, and produced situations that might easily have caused apoplexy among Clintonville fans and most certainly had them breathless and on the edge of their seats a goodly part of the evening.

There's hardly any other reason, except pressure for the fact a team which got only four hits beat a club which got nine. There was a matter of six bases on balls on the part of the Two Rivers hurler and five on the part of the Clintonville tosser, but they almost offset each other. But a high state of nervousness on the part of the Two Rivers pitcher reacted favorably for the club because Clintonville batters swung at a lot of bad pitches.

At Two Rivers Sunday
The second game of the series is booked at Two Rivers next Sunday afternoon and the third will go to the city which drew the largest crowd in the first two games. Clintonville didn't have a capacity house because rain at quarter to six probably led many persons to believe the game had been washed out. At that, it almost was.

The most obviously under pressure gentleman in the park last evening was Cliff "Lucy" Alberts, hurler for Two Rivers, but he was in such a bad state that he had Trucker batters swinging at almost anything. Lucy, usually a most calm individual, was as jittery as a bridegroom. He developed a funny twitch to his arm, he chewed his gum with the vehemence of a Czech tangling with a Sudeten, he yelled for every decision that was doubtful and he was wilder than the proverbial hawk. But, as we said, he was so jittery he was good.

Tommy Tomlin hurled for Clintonville and although he was inclined to give free tickets at bad moments and once threw the ball past third base into deep left, he didn't get a break all evening. For five frames he allowed a single hit, and in the sixth gave up another which resulted in a run. In the seventh he was scored on once without giving a hit but waiting two men. One of his most reliable mates bobbled an easy roller which would have retired the side. In the eighth two hits with another error saw another two runs counted against him.

Pitchers Duel For 5 Frames
The first five frames of the game saw a pitching duel with Two Rivers getting a single hit and no runs off Tomlin and Clintonville a single run and three hits off Alberts.

Clintonville opened the game with Meyers getting a hit on the first pitch. He never got off first base, however. Clintonville got a man to

Mayor Predicts $14,000 Surplus In City Treasury

Finances in Best Condition Of Last Five Years, Aldermen Told

New London — The city of New London is in its healthiest financial condition of the last five years with a probable surplus of $14,000 to $19,000 by the end of the 1938 fiscal year, Mayor E. W. Wendlandt reported to the common council at an informal meeting at city hall council chambers last night.

The city had on hand Sept. 1 nearly $60,000 cash, $59,259 to be exact, with an estimated expenditure of $70,000 for the remainder of the year. Conservatively anticipating additional income of $25,000 still to be received will leave the city an approximate surplus of $15,000.

The city at present has a borrowing capacity of $32,000 within its statutory indebtedness. The city's total indebtedness in January, 1937, was $225,000 and since that time $27,000 has been paid. The limit of indebtedness is $130,000, leaving the margin of $32,000.

Reviews Changes
Reviewing the progress of the city's finances, the mayor pointed out that at the close of 1934 the municipal deficit was $16,255; at the end of 1935 it was $25,990; in 1936 it was $702. Last year at the end of 1937 the books showed a surplus of $18,024.

The favorable record last year, the mayor explained, resulted from an income greater than expenditures. The actual income was more than anticipated and the expenses were less than estimated. The same favorable condition exists this year, he reported.

However a great deal of the surplus last year resulted from early receipt of the auto gasoline tax from the state, the mayor explained. The check for $8,900 was received in December, 1937, instead of in January as in previous years, arriving unexpectedly to the income of 1937. All will be fine if the check is received again in December this year, otherwise the surplus will be lessened by that amount.

Income Gains
Of the $18,024 surplus realized last year, $14,880 was accounted for in cash. A total of $3,164 is represented in increased assets through investment in property in the city.

The estimated incomes for this year will be exceeded was shown in figures offered by the mayor. Income tax collections were budgeted at $6,500 while $7,721 has been received so far and more is expected. Other items such as state road funds, liquor taxes, state gasoline taxes and the like show excess of $50 to $250 above budget figures.

RECORDS PROVIDE 'JAM SESSIONS'

New London — A collection of 903 swing music records, believed to be the largest in this vicinity, has been assembled by Robert Andrews, 333 Shawano street, shown above pointing out a recording to a neighborhood swing fan, Clinton Platte. With his vast supply of recordings and an improvised radio pick-up for volume and tone control, the Andrews apartment is the scene of frequent "jam sessions" by groups of "jitterbug" friends. Bob is seeking members to organize a regular swing club. Shown in the picture is a fraction of the 900 records.

New London Swing Fan Has Collection of 900 Records

New London — New London has its swing fans, its jitterbugs, and its jam sessions, and all centers around a huge collection of more than 900 swing music recordings belonging to Robert Andrews, 333 Shawano street.

Bob has 903 records to be exact, and he has been collecting them since 1932. He's been a swing fan since 1921, he says, and in addition to his records he has gathered together a great deal of published material on the leading swing artists of the land and their musical product. Pictures are especially treasured and like fans his room is practically papered with them.

"Jam sessions," or those gatherings where fans meet to listen and beat out the rhythm of the tunes, are held frequently in the evenings at the Henry Ziemer home where Bob lives with his mother, Mrs. Luella Andrews. The young men of the immediate neighborhood make up most of the fans but many friends from around town join in on occasions.

To improve the musical reproductions, Andrews has rigged up an electrical pick-up through his mantle radio loudspeaker. The arrangement provides better tones and volume control. When "wide open" the music permeates the neighborhood but no one has ever complained against it, Andrews says. To the contrary, a lot of the neighbors sit out on the porch in the evenings to listen to the music, the "jammers" say.

Some Old Ones
Some of the records in the collection, believed to be one of the largest in this vicinity, date back to the early swing recordings in 1921 when the craze was known as jazz. In the group is a recording by the original Dixie Land Jazz band in

Stacymen to Get First Test Friday

New London Team Will Meet West Green Bay In Non-League Tilt

New London — Coach Stacy's football aggregation will get its first test on the pigskin battlefield Saturday night when the New London squad will travel to West Green Bay in a non-league contest. The game will start at 8:30 under the lights at the school field back of West Green Bay High school.

A squad of about 30 boys will be picked from the 40 candidates to make the trip.

Since the opening tilt will be a night contest and most of the conference schedule will be under the lights, Coach D. N. Stacy hopes to practice with his charges under the home lights sometime this week, probably this evening if conditions permit.

The 1938 team has been taking on new ruggedness with heavy workouts regardless of weather and with the patching up of weak spots the prospective line-up begins to look more capable than the New London grid mentor will admit. A shortage of kicking ability appeared to have been filled yesterday when Ike Poeppke assimilated a little coaching and began to boot some fair punts. Passing and receiving still receives much attention in the practice grind while line work and plays are being thoroughly drilled.

Shiocton Man Leaves $100 Funds to 2 Lodges

New London — The New London chapter of the Royal Arch Masons and the Blue lodge each were bequeathed $100 by the late Gene Darling of Shiocton, it was learned at the meeting of the chapter Tues-

1921. Some of the rarer selections are Benny Carter's "Lonely Nights," Wilbur Sweatman's "Jada" of 1922; and "Memphis Blues" by Ben Pollack's band featuring Benny Goodman.

He has only one 12-inch record in the whole lot, the first large-size swing recording to be made. It is Benny Goodman's "Sing, Sing, Sing."

Andrews has picked up the records all over the state, by mail and in person, and has made special trips to Chicago and other places to purchase choice recordings. Every record is carefully indexed according to band director and any selection can be picked from the 900 in a moment's time.

9 New Members are Admitted to Senior Young People's Group

New London — Nine new members were taken into the Emanuel Young People's Senior society at its regular meeting at the church Tuesday night. A new series of programs was inaugurated with the Rev. W. E. Pankow as lecturer. His topic on the first night was "Missionaries in India." The lectures will be continued as a regular feature of the meetings.

New members are Eldor Buchholz, Eugene Warncke, Orville Sanders, Vincent Drath, Eugene Fuhrman, Arleigh Zuege, and the Misses Pearl Roloff, Ruth Sawall and Ilene Tech.

The organization of a bowling league was planned and Wallace Wendt was named to make the necessary arrangements.

Plans also were completed for the society's reunion banquet for confirmation classes of the last 10 years to be held at the church parlors next Tuesday evening.

Boys' Intramural Athletic Program Launched at School

New London — Boys intramural activities were launched this week at Washington high school with 87 boys signing up for speedball yesterday. Four teams will hold practice games Friday afternoon and a 6 game tourney will get under way next week with games every Wednesday and Friday. Team captains are Orville Sanders, Earl Worm, William Budwit, and Glen Smith.

About 125 boys have applied for membership in the Boys Intramural Athletic association. Duane Schoening yesterday was named chairman of all activities and Dick Demming will be his assistant.

Robert Mavis Named Head of Junior Class

New London — The Junior class at Washington high school yesterday afternoon selected its officers and automatically made its choice from prom king and the executive prom committee for next spring.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Stories of Switzerland

IV—VISITING A VILLAGE

Fourteen years ago I made my first visit to Switzerland, and still remember how happy I felt as I was riding into the country. At little villages along the way, people gathered near the railway tracks, and waved to those aboard the train. I knew their smiles were not meant especially for me, but it seemed as if I were being given a personal greeting.

My train took me to Berne, the capital city, and there I stayed at a pleasant hotel. Berne is in the German-speaking part of Switzerland.

One day I made an excursion from Berne — a walking trip to the village of Bollingen. Along the way, I stopped at a farm where I had noticed many trees with large red cherries. Using the German language, I asked to buy some of the cherries. A large bagful of them was handed to me in exchange for a coin worth about a dime in our money.

Walking onward, I started eating the cherries. Perhaps I had eaten a third of them when a light rain began to fall, and I looked about for shelter. Nearby was a barn and I walked toward it—but out came a big dog!

That dog must have been half as tall as I was, and he was growling! What could I do? Of course I didn't run, for the dog could have caught me in a hurry. I had no walking stick in my hand with which to guard myself—but I did have a bag of cherries! Stopping and looking at the dog, I reached into the bag and pulled out some cherries.

"Maybe this dog will eat cherries," I thought, and tossed a few toward him. He put down his nose and sniffed—then ate them, stones and all.

Without waiting any longer, I walked away. It seemed to me better to go through a bit of rain than to stay near that dog!

Soon the rain stopped falling, and the rest of my trip was pleasant. I rented a room in a private home at Bollingen, and the next day went to a school for a visit. It was a rather old and rustic school, and I did not notice any pictures on the walls. I looked out of the windows, however, and saw snow-clad peaks of the Alps. It seemed to me that the mountains made more beautiful pictures than men could paint.

The teacher told the pupils to sing a song for me, and they did it with great glee. All stood up and made motions as they sang. The words of the song were in a local dialect, and I did not understand them, but from the motions the children were making I could tell they were singing a song with the words in it: "This is the way we wash the clothes, and this is the way we iron them!"

Dryer Describes Army's School at Rotary Meeting

Forms of Military Tactics Studied in 3-Month Course

Kaukauna — The functioning of the army reserve officers training school at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, which he attended this year, was described to Rotarians yesterday noon at Hotel Kaukauna by Lieutenant-Colonel Olin G. Dryer. Dryer was one of four from the corps area including Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois who was selected to attend the school this year.

Two hundred and fifty regular army officers and about 40 specially selected from the national guard and reserve attended the school this year. The chances for the selection of an officer such as Dryer were 6,000 to 1, he said.

"About 100 army officers are in charge at the school, and the entire 3-month period is divided into definite time allowances for the various subjects," Dryer stated.

"All forms of military tactics and almost all conceivable subjects pertaining to offensive and defensive operations are studied. Special attention is given to map work."

Dryer exhibited books and pamphlets which are put out each year by the army, and which contain the most modern recommendations for all types of combat and maneuvers. These are changed each year to conform to mechanization and other changes, the Rotarians were told.

The United States army teaches the offensive viewpoint, Dryer said in explaining how the nation's military leaders view warfare in general. This does not mean that we will force a war with another country, but that if we are at war our policy will not be to remain on the defensive.

After the completion of the course at Fort Leavenworth an officer, if his work is satisfactory, is eligible for membership on the staff of an army contingent, such as a brigade, corps or division. Only officers with long experience usually are considered for the school. Dryer has held his commission since 1917.

Chief of police John Bernardy, has issued warning to motorists to stop speeding on Kimberly avenue. The speed limit on the avenue is 15 miles per hour, and the chief asked that drivers observe the rule and to use extra precautions during school hours.

Interstate Trade Barriers Threat To Farm Products

Taxes 'Short-Sighted' Desire to Help Local Industry, Bureau Says

Barriers to interstate trade—a problem that existed before the states united—are again threatening the free movement of farm products between states, according to a release from the federal bureau of agricultural economics which has been received at the office of R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

Such barriers, the bureau points out, are similar to those existing before the adoption of the Constitution. New York imposed taxes on shipping entering her harbor from Connecticut and New Jersey. Both these states retaliated—Connecticut by an agreement with her merchants to suspend commercial relations with New York, and New Jersey by heavily taxing a New York lighthouse erected on New Jersey soil. Georgia resented imposts by South Carolina on her commerce and threatened reprisals.

In 1875 Alexander Hamilton, in urging the adoption of a federal constitution, deplored "the unneighborly regulations of some states" and called them "contrary to the true spirit of the union."

A study of trade barriers within the United States by the bureau of agricultural economics shows that "in part they are the incidental result of efforts by the states to tax and regulate industry. But also they have resulted from a shortsighted desire to protect local industry by barring out-of-state competition."

Many cities and states limit the area from which milk or cream may come by restricting the area to which they will send inspectors or in which they will grant permits. State plant quarantines may be necessary to stop the spread of pests or disease, but they should not be continued longer than necessary. Every state has maximum weights for motor vehicles. But these weights vary from state to state. "For the most part," says the bureau, "interference with interstate commerce by motor-vehicle legislation is a byproduct of the effort by states to raise revenue, preserve roads and bridges, and to provide for public safety. Nevertheless, these are serious trade barriers."

Training School on Rural Leadership to Open Last of Month

Rural home economics groups, 4-H clubs, cooperatives and Granges from several counties in this vicinity are preparing for a rural leadership training school to be held Sept. 27, 28, 29 and 30 at Allenville Grange hall. Delegates have been chosen from most of the rural organizations, and the counties which are cooperating in this venture are Outagamie, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Calumet and probably Waupaca.

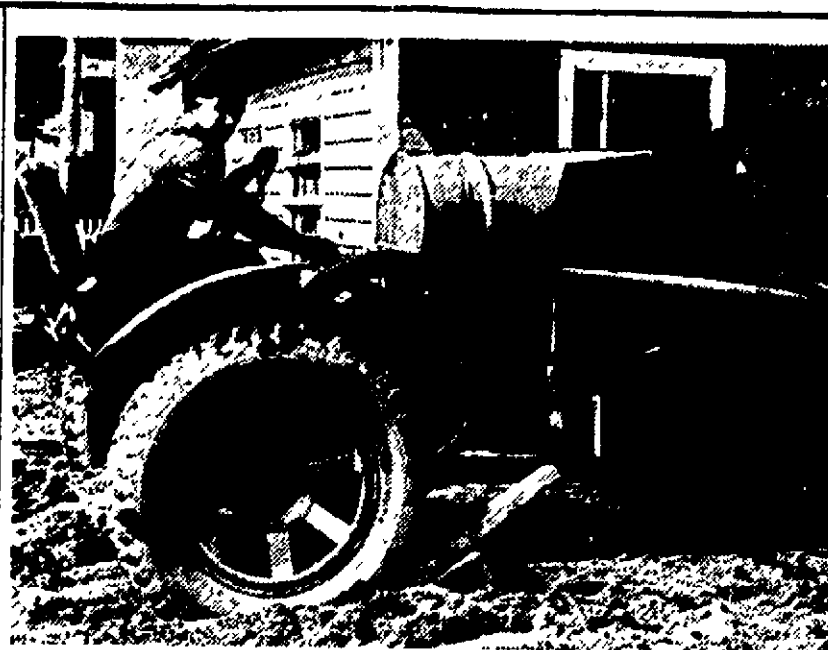

Columbine 4-H club has advanced its next meeting from Sept. 30 to Sept. 23. It will be held at the Joseph Coonen home, route 3, Appleton, and plans will be discussed for presenting plays at the parents' night program in October.

Sergeant Radtke Will Talk at Wilson School

Sergeant Carl Radtke, head of the traffic division of the Appleton Police department, will speak on safety at the first assembly program of the term Friday at Wilson Junior High school.

Guy J. Barlow, principal, will welcome pupils and outline what is expected of them during the school year. Kenneth Schilling, director of the school chorus will lead assembly singing.

TRY BUILDING ONE YOURSELF

It's a homemade job, the tractor that Edward Jochmann, Darboy, is driving. Containing a 1936 V-8 motor and parts from another car and a tractor, the machine was made by Jochmann last fall. It went into service this spring and for the last 35 days has been used as a threshing machine. Jochmann says the tractor uses 25 gallons of gasoline a day during threshing time. WAA Is Ready to Help With Marketing Problems

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The Wisconsin Agricultural authority is prepared to cooperate with individual producers in their marketing problems, and also with individual firms, cooperatives, and local governmental units, Wilbur Carlson, general manager, said today in a letter mailed to 5,000 farm operators, dairy plant proprietors and other agricultural interests.

The WAA is a product of the 1937 special session of the state legislature, and its objectives are defined as the promotion of state agricultural products by the development of existing markets and the discovery of new outlets.

Carlson emphasized that "it is our purpose to cooperate with you, and not direct, control or dominate your own activities. We are merely the agency through which we hope you will be able to gain the objectives outlined by the WAA act."

Carlson suggested that the various producing interests in the state nominate products committees to plan promotion and marketing which may be carried out through the agency of the WAA.

Plan Pea Campaign It has been revealed, for example, that pea producers concerned over their glutted market are planning a concentrated promotion campaign next month which will be handled through Carlson's office. "Proper market analysis is the basis of any successful sales program and detailed statistics from crop reporting services together with data as to the source of products will be assembled," Carlson informed producers. "Further research will then be made into markets to determine the distribution of various Wisconsin agricultural products, and this material will be a guide in nation-wide drives to sell commodities."

The WAA manager said he intended to make his agency a "financial clearing house for the distribution and more advantageous marketing of the state's agricultural commodities."

Schedule First Surplus Cabbage Shipments Today

Shipments of surplus cabbage from Outagamie and Waupaca counties were scheduled to start today, providing it's all right with the weather.

About 600 cabbage growers are expected to benefit from the program, directed by the surplus commodities corporation. The aim is to ship 90 cars out this week, from three points, Shiocton, Bear Creek, and Center Valley.

More than 400 growers sent in their acreage reports to the office of R. C. Swanson, county agent, yesterday, and the reports were pouring in today. They will form the basis of the allotments to individual growers.

Test Hot Water Heat for Winter Fruit Shipments

Would Do Away With Costly Rail Stops for Inspections Enroute

To get apples and pears from the Pacific Northwest to Eastern consumers during winter months, when zero or below temperatures are encountered, scientists of the United States department of agriculture have tested refrigerator car gas heaters with thermostat control. This type of heater does away with costly rail stops for frequent inspections and insures the right temperature for shipments across the continent—about 35 degrees—even though the train passes through rapidly changing weather conditions.

Cars are now heated with charcoal burners placed in the ice bunkers. Sometimes the heat gets too high and fruit ripens too rapidly, especially when the trains run out of a particularly cold area into a warmer one, which a problem as well as too little, making it imperative for the train to stop for temperature regulation.

Tested on Potatoes Last winter in transportation tests on potatoes from Maine, the department investigators tested a new heater, which burns any common compressed gas and is suspended outside and under the refrigerator car. It operates on the same principle as a hot water heater for the home. Pipes between the floor and the floor racks of the car distribute the heat evenly to all parts of the space under the floor racks.

The warm air rising keeps fruit in the top layer of the load at about the same temperature as that in the bottom layer. An antifreeze

Legionnaires to Advertise State Dairy Industry

Will Carry Milk Pails, Stools at National Convention Parade

Wisconsin American Legion members will carry milk pails and milk stools and wear wide-brimmed straw hats in the parade at the national convention in Los Angeles Sept. 20.

Equipped in this fashion, the contingent of 500 Wisconsin legionnaires will draw attention to the fact that this state surpasses all others in dairying.

Five-hundred milk pails and an equal number of milk stools and straw hats are being supplied for the occasion by the department of agriculture and markets. The department supplemented these materials with a shipment of almost a half ton of Wisconsin cheese to be used in advertising the state's outstanding dairy product.

Plans for boosting Wisconsin dairying at the convention were worked out by officials of the department, the W. A. A., the governor's office, and the Wisconsin American Legion.

Through an arrangement made with Gil Stordock, state Legion adjutant, two-ounce, labelled cartons of Wisconsin American cheese will be placed at 2,500 plates at the annual state's dinner. Two and one-half pound cartons of cheese also will be presented to many national dignitaries of the American Legion, Hollywood movie stars, and public officials of the west coast.

Governor Philip F. LaFollette has invited several Wisconsin movie stars to a Wisconsin region cheese party in Los Angeles at which an entire wheel of Wisconsin Swiss cheese will be served. Invited guests include Pat O'Brien, Spencer Tracy, Don Ameche, Frederic March, Fred MacMurray, Charles Winniger, and John Littel.

The Wisconsin Legionnaires have organized a Milk Pail Drum corps which will march and serenade at stops along the route to Los Angeles. Listed as stops on the itinerary are: Modridge, S. D.; Butte, Mont.; Seattle, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; and San Francisco.

solution in the pipes avoids freezing when the heaters are not in operation on the trip back across the continent.

It is estimated that between one and two dollars worth of compressed gas will keep a car at correct temperatures on a cross country trip. Canadian railroads are equipping 50 cars with the new device this year. Only two cars have been equipped by U. S. railroads for experimental purposes.
